Belgian Marathon

First Talks Fail Doctors Still Out

Target

BRUSSELS (UPI)—The government and representatives of Belgium's 10,000 striking doctors failed early today to reach agreement on ending the medical walkout. The strike against a new national health law went into its 11th day.

A marathon meeting between both sides, called Friday is an attempt to halt the strike which virtually has stripped the country of all but emergency medical services, broke up early this morning.

More talks were scheduled for this afternoon, but the break dashed hopes for an immediate end to the strike. Before the meeting, some optimism had been expressed.

MAD PREDICTED

Interior Minister Gilson said he predicted the medical walkout would be over after the week-end.

The talks are aimed at starting formal negotiations on possible changes in the law to make it acceptable to doctors. Both sides have agreed that, once negotiations begin, the doctors will return to work.

MUST KNOW

After the meeting Gilson said he was convinced the talks would be "finished" later today. But Dr. Andre Wynen, representing the physicians, commented: "Before we can end the strike we must know where we are going."

He said the talks had been held in a "good atmosphere," but it was "too early" to tell if an agreement was possible now.

Columbia Pledge:

Higher Interest No Cost to B.C.

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal government will shoulder a difference in interest costs involved in United States payment of $274,000,000 for the Columbia River project to British Columbia Oct. 1.

External Affairs Minister Martin, after giving that information to Colin Cameron (NDP—Nanaimo—Cowichan—the Islands) in a series of questions, agreed Friday to provide a report on just what this will cost. The details were not settled.

NORMAL PART

But he insisted that this federal responsibility is a normal part of foreign exchange transactions.

Under the Columbia power and flood-control project, B.C. is paying expenses for three storage dams and collecting all the revenues. An agreement stipulates that the federal government will not bear any of the project cost.

The federal financial cost was questioned as the external affairs committee ended its first week of study of the project.

Mr. Cameron said he was not objecting because the Canadian government will bear part of the interest burden in accepting U.S. funds and then paying the money to B.C. But he wanted the procedure set out clearly.

'My Suzy the Third to Die What a Waste of Life!'

REGINA (CP)—Mr. and Mrs. John Ochanney have new hope for a cure for their daughter Yvonne, 4, who has leukemia.

Three months ago, Mrs.

Ochanney took Yvonne to Corsica, where French biologist Gaston Naessens claimed he could cure leukemia.

Before he could treat Yvonne, the French health ministry declared his cure worthless and prohibited him from using it.

Now Mrs. Ochanney has learned from an English housewife she met in Corsica of two British doctors who claim they can cure leukemia.

Mrs. Harry Pilgrim said in a letter to Mrs. Ochanney her six-year-old daughter Suzy died of leukemia on March 7.

The letter said the two London doctors, W. M. Croston and Celia Culver Evans, have had the serum for some time, but "because of professional etiquette, they have been unable to make it known to the public."

"So children die," she wrote. My Suzy was the third child to die. Donald

Banker Charged

FAIRFIELD, Ill. (AP)—The FBI says examiners have uncovered nearly $1,000,000 in irregularities in a small-town bank where a respected cashier has been charged with embezzlement. Bookkeeper and cashier Leo Brown, 29, employed at the bank since he was 19, went into seclusion Thursday after being freed on $10,000 bond.

Howard: Quebec Like Addict Let It Go Its Way

Teachers of Canadiens Not Their Job—John D

BI-N-BI: BAD DAY

OTTAWA (UPI)—A separate Quebec and a new confederation of nine provinces was urged Friday as the best alternative to the "collapse of the Canadian nation" by New Democrat MP Frank Howard.

The B.C. member, drawing charges of being a western "separatist," led a debate on Canada's national dilemma which ended in a combined opposition attack on the royal commission on bilingualism and biculturalism.

Mr. Howard lashed out at the "insatiable demands" of Premier Lesage and his colleagues, comparing the Quebec government to a "drug addict."

REGINS SMALL

"It can't get enough," he said. Just like a narcotics addict it begins with a small dose and then gets bigger and bigger."

The federal government, he said, would find itself "giving and giving and giving to Quebec until there was nothing left to give."

If the present course continued it could result in the "collapse of the Canadian nation and an end to any possibility of amicable relations in the country," Howard said.

SEPARATE ENTITY

He said the government should "take a course that will work and build a confederation of nine provinces with Quebec as a separate entity fitting in as loosely as it may wish."

The feeling in other parts of Canada was turning to bitter resentment because of Lesage's continued demands, he said, and a nine-province confederation would be better for both the country and Quebec.

CO-CHAIRMEN

Social Credit MP H. A. Olson of Medicine Hat started the attack on the royal commission, centering it on the actions of the chairmen, Davidson Dunton and Andre Laurendeau.

Instead of listening objectively to the views of Canadians, they were going across the country making "ridiculous and inflammatory statements."

CLOSER LOOK

He urged the government to take a closer look at the two men and either remove them or advise them to do their work properly and explain the role of the commission to Canadians.

Opposition leader John Diefenbaker condemned the co-chairmen for interpreting their own views rather than collecting evidence for recommendations to the government.

"They have turned into per-

Millions At Last

OTTAWA (CP)—The Commons finally wound up its prolonged debate on the 1963-64 supplementary estimates Friday night at the end of a three-hour overtime sitting.

An appropriations bill for $43,762,715 quickly shot through three readings.

Debate on the final spending items for the fiscal year that ended March 31 took 16 sitting days.

Originally, the government aimed at clearing them up March 26, the day before Good Friday, to clear the decks for the traditional 10-day Easter recess. But the opposition balked and the recess was washed out.

Drowning Boy Saved Brain Damage Feared

WINNIPEG (CP)—Doctors worked Friday to save the life of a two-year-old boy pulled from a water-filled ditch by the wife of the Anglican Church leader in Canada.

Colin Campbell was listed in critical condition at Children's Hospital.

Doctors, fearing brain damage, are monitoring his condition constantly with an electroencephalogram—a device that records activity in the skull.

Lack of oxygen causes brain damage and the boy may have had his supply cut off for as long as 30 minutes when he nearly drowned in the ditch.

SLID INTO DITCH

He slid down the side of the ditch Wednesday morning into four feet of water on the treed grounds of St. Mary's Academy, a private girls' school. He had been riding a tricycle with his four-year-old sister Mary-Ann.

The little girl ran for home three blocks away to tell her mother.

Archbishop H. H. Clark, Anglican primate for Canada, and his wife Anna, driving by the school, were attracted by the scream of an unidentified woman.

JUMPED FENCE

Mrs. Clark ran from the car after it jerked to a stop, jumped over the iron fence and ran to the edge of the ravine.

"I couldn't believe it was a little boy," she said later. All she could see was a soggy bundle of clothing on the surface.

She slid down the bank into water up to her waist and lifted the body out of the water, but could not clamber back.

"I couldn't get any footing and I felt mud sucking at my feet," she said.

PULLED OUT

Her husband who had followed her, called for help from passing motorists. Finally two men helped pull the woman and the unconscious boy up the slippery sides of the ravine.

Doctors said two-year-olds have enormous recuperative powers and Colin was improving slowly.

The boy's personal physician, Dr. Lyle McDonald, said he will not discuss the boy's case until he is past the critical stage.

Cuban Success Explained

Youth Devoted to Fidel

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Cuban Premier Castro has entrenched himself as an increasingly popular dictator by winning the devotion of the island's youth, attorney James Donovan, of New York, said Friday.

"He is directing everything for the youth, and they are fanatically devoted to Fidel," Donovan told the National Press Club.

Donovan was the attorney who dealt with Castro in arranging for the exchange of 1,200 prisoners taken at the 1961 Bay of Pigs invasion in return for $50,000,000 worth of U.S. medical supplies.

He said Castro has been gaining in strength. But he added the support of Cuban youth was not because of the Communist system the dictator has imposed.

"The island of Cuba belongs to Castro," Donovan said, "and it is absurd to consider him a pawn of Khrushchev. The Cuban youth are not concerned about the party."

"And Castro is far greater devoted to Fidel than to Karl Marx."

Donovan said that from the time Castro took power in 1959 he has directed his program primarily toward the school-age children of Cuba.

"He is not interested in the older people, the fugitives, the exiles," Donovan said. "Remember Lenin once said, 'Give me the children of a country for four years, and I can assure its future.'"

"Castro has had the youth of Cuba for almost six years," he said.

Christine's Lover Drops Lawsuit

LONDON (AP)—Alcysius (Lucky) Gordon withdrew Friday a damage suit against Christine Keeler and two other women for conspiring to put him in jail.

Gordon, a Jamaican nightclub singer, was jailed six months last year on a charge of beating Miss Keeler.

Gordon, a former lover of Miss Keeler, continued to protest his innocence, won his release and the girl was arrested along with a friend and their housekeeper. All three were convicted on charges of perjury and conspiracy. Christine, who drew a nine-month sentence, will be released in June.

Shawinigan Loot Stolen Weapons Recovered In Montreal

MONTREAL (CP) — Police announced Friday they have recovered almost all the arms stolen in a terrorist raid on a Shawinigan, Que., armory Feb. 26.

Joseph Brunet, director of the Quebec Provincial Police, said all the arms except three revolvers were recovered in a raid early Friday on a garage in north-end Montreal.

LOST RECOVERED
Recovered were 34 FN semi-automatic rifles, 3,200 rounds of FN ammunition in 1964 magazines, three portable radio receivers, a radio transmitter and army uniforms, police said.

The big break in the case came Thursday with the arrest of three persons in a car stopped at a road block about 40 miles north of Montreal, two hours after a bank holdup at Mont-Rolland.

MATERIAL ON CAR
Police said material used specifically to clean semi-automatic rifles, a roll of coins and separatist literature were found in the car.

Director Brunet identified two of those arrested as Jean Gagnon, alias Berube, 27, of Montreal and Jean Lussier, 22, of suburban Outremont.

ONE SUSPECT IS
The name of the third individual, who first told police he was 17 years old but later admitted to being 18, was not disclosed.

They were taken to Montreal for questioning Thursday night by GPP, RCMP and Montreal anti-terrorist squads.

Following interrogation, the police conducted a series of raids and found the Shawinigan arms packed in 100-lb tarpaulin-covered army crates in a garage.

Labor Wins London Council Vote

LONDON (Reuters)—The Labor party has won control of the giant new Greater London Council in an election regarded here as a preview for the parliamentary general election to be held this fall. Labor candidates took 64 of the council's 100 seats, leaving the Conservatives trailing with 36.

Standings in the 630-seat House of Commons: Conservatives 359, Labor 257, Liberals 7, Independent 1, vacant 6.

The British Communist party ran 38 candidates here Thursday. None was elected.

The Greater London Council elections were the climax of a four-day vote in which Britons throughout the country elected local county councillors.

The voting, which took place Thursday, appeared to spell doom for the small Liberal party, which fielded 88 candidates. Not one was elected.

Observers figured the swing away from the nationally ruling Conservatives in London at about six per cent—enough, if Labor not only swamped the projected on a national scale, to put a Labor government in of-strength elsewhere in the nation. Following four days of voting in 34 of the 33 council areas outside London, Labor picked up 61 seats while "anti-socialists" dropped 47 and independents lost 13. Voting in the balance of the 33 council areas was taking place Friday and today.

50 Die Reds Hit Saigon Doorstep

SAIGON (AP) — Communist guerrillas faded into hiding south of Saigon Friday night after killing more than 50 South Vietnamese soldiers and a U.S. pilot in two days of bloody attacks. Three other Americans were wounded in fighting that brought the war to this capital's doorstep.

The second and most violent conflict swirled Thursday around the prosperous farming centre of Mo Cay, 50 miles south of Saigon. This was where the American casualties occurred.

PLANE DOWNED
At the height of the conflict, Communist ground fire brought down a South Vietnamese T-28 airplane, killing the U.S. pilot and his South Vietnamese observer. The pilot was identified in Washington as Capt. Robert N. Brunet, whose wife lives in Bethesda, Maryland.

Communist sharpshooters also hit two U.S. army helicopters, forcing them to land.

CHALLENGE TO PREMIER
The Communist attacks were a challenge to Premier Nguyen Thanh, who has called that South Vietnamese 7th Division area one of the most critical in South Viet Nam. He has been trying to assert government control there, where guerrilla attacks have been almost constant in recent months.

Strive to End Five-Year Block Railway, Union Negotiators Plunge Into 15-Day Drive

WASHINGTON (AP)—Urged on by President Johnson, railway and union negotiators plunged Friday into a 15-day drive toward a goal that has eluded them for five years—settlement of differences which repeatedly have brought the United States to the brink of a general rail shutdown.

Sitting with a special team of federal mediators, representatives of the five operating unions met for three hours Friday morning at the White House.

Then the union leaders left so the negotiators for more than 200 rail lines could state management positions to the mediators.

Beyond saying they would return at 9:30 a.m. today, union spokesmen had no comment—noting that Johnson had requested both sides to refrain from talking for publication until the negotiations end.

MEET JOHNSON
Before they began their separate sessions—face-to-face bargaining will come later—representatives of both sides met briefly with Johnson in the White House rose garden. There they were told that the results of their efforts will have profound bearing on the future of all collective bargaining in the U.S.

Only strenuous last-ditch efforts by Johnson Thursday night brought the 15-day postponement of the walkout which had been scheduled for 12:01 a.m. local time Friday.

Railway Work Stoppage Blocked by Injunction

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A work stoppage by railroad switchmen reporting sick spread along the Southern Pacific in northern California Friday but the railway quickly obtained an anti-strike injunction in federal court.

The stoppage began at Roseville Thursday and spread Friday to yards at Oakland, Tracy, Martinez and Stockton.

The railway contended the stoppage violated "the president's agreement for continued national handling of the work rules dispute."

Along Nicosia Truce Zone

Turk Watering Garden Killed by Greek Shots

NICOSIA (UPI)—Greek Cypriots opened fire along the Nicosia truce zone Friday and killed a Turkish Cypriot with a burst of shots shortly before United Nations undersecretary Ralph Bunche toured the 100-yard-wide strip.

The firing, first major incident since the weekend, killed the man while he was watering his garden. A teen-age Turkish Cypriot girl was wounded. Greek Cypriots said the shots were accidental.

When the firing began, British troops went to alert positions along the "green line" separating the Turkish and Greek Cypriot communities in Nicosia. Turkish Cypriots manned their gun positions on the other side of the truce zone but the firing halted abruptly. The incident occurred as the U.S. Air Force began air-lifting UN troop reinforcements into Cyprus. The air force was flying in 762 Swedes and today will bring in an advance 35-man detachment of 900 Finns to join 3,500 Britons and 1,000 Canadians.

Did Loffmark Err?

WHEN HE announced the proposed formation of a Bank of British Columbia, Premier Bennett indicated to the legislature that the bank would be owned, financed and controlled by Canadians, and that it would not seek foreign capital to get it going.

The remarks this week of Mr. Bennett's new trade minister, Ralph Loffmark, so conflict with the premier's blueprint for the bank as to suggest that either plans have been changed, or Mr. Loffmark was speaking out-of-tune with his leader.

In a talk this week to the Sales Executive Club in Vancouver, Mr. Loffmark said that an American group had offered to put up $20,000,000 towards the financing of the new bank, and that smaller sums had been promised by B.C. interests.

It is true that Mr. Loffmark did not say the government was going to accept the U.S. $20,000,000, nor did he say that it would be rejected, and it may have been no more than an ill-advised attempt by the minister to whip up investors' interest in the new bank.

However, the public is now due an explanation. The acceptance of the new bank in the public mind was based on the assumption that it would be an all-Canadian affair with B.C. management.

If this policy has been changed since Mr. Loffmark took on his new portfolio, then the change should be officially announced. Many who would support the granting of a charter for the new bank if it were to be all-Canadian might well want to oppose it at the Ottawa level if it was to be partly foreign owned.

The recent acquisition of the Dutch-owned Mercantile Bank of Canada by the First National Bank of New York, indicates how happy the U.S. banking system would be to increase its hold on the Canadian banking business.

There can be little doubt that an invitation at any time by the government of British Columbia, which is to own 25 per cent of the new bank, for American capital would be accepted with great enthusiasm.

If this bank has any merit, and many people think it has, it can surely only be if the people of British Columbia in particular, and the people of Canada as a whole, are willing to support it financially and otherwise. It is definitely not a case where foreign capital is needed, or wanted.

The Single Garb

MR. HELLYER'S recent white paper on defence laid out as a long range aim the actual absorption of sailors, soldiers and airmen into one single serviceman. The pace is apparently being stepped up with the Confederation centenary in mind.

Already Mr. Pearson has promised that a new national flag will fly over the Montreal world's fair which will highlight Canada's hundredth birthday, and a report from Ottawa says this date will now be the deadline for putting the armed forces into one common uniform.

Once things are scrambled they are not easily unscrambled. It perhaps looks as though Mr. Pearson hopes to hang on to office so as to cast the Liberal aura over the Confederation celebrations and thus have Mr. Hellyer's ambitions fully realized before another government, possibly with other ideas about at least some defence arrangements, undoes his work.

It is said at any rate that plans envisage the issue of the new combined uniform possibly starting next year, an innovation that is highly debatable and whose virtue is not at all clear.

No decision has yet been made on color or design, a department spokesman is quoted, but there is concern for a good, neat, serviceable cloth. Is there something the matter with the cloth presently in uniform use? And are they talking about dress uniforms or those worn on operational duty?

In any event a single uniform, no matter how elegant, is not likely to sweeten the affections of sailors, soldiers, and airmen whose pride of arms has been symbolized by the garb that identifies them.

Why All the Fuss?

IT IS THE DUTY of the parliamentary opposition to look for and expose faults in government proposals, but once in a while its keenness to do its job and incidentally to embarrass the party in power some of its members get carried away into fanciful flights of suspicion.

This seems to be the case in regard to Opposition Leader John Diefenbaker's criticism of the labor department's new social security numbering system, which he described in the House of Commons as bearing "a strange relationship to dictatorship." Mr. Diefenbaker wanted firm assurance that the information provided on the application cards would not be available to other government departments, and would not permit "a snooping operation."

The connection between dictatorship and the registration of employees—most of whom already are on record with the Unemployment Insurance Commission but will receive new numbers, and the rest of whom are not compelled to apply—will surely elude almost everyone.

It is difficult to see moreover what otherwise unavailable data could be gained by the RCMP or the revenue department or any division of government by "snooping" through the cards—except the maiden names of applicants' mothers, which except for additional differentiation of persons with common names is probably the most useless information that could be sought.

There may exist in some minds a natural resentment of the regimentation that further governmental numbering implies, although most of us have a collection of numbers of various kinds already. But Mr. Diefenbaker surely goes too far in reading sinister purpose into the registration.

Harvard Titbits

Poetic Justice

MR. MARTIN (Timmins): I think it might be a good idea to bring to the committee a case of what might be considered poetic justice. I should like to read to the committee something which I discovered on my desk today—something which has to do with certain procedures in this House of recent date. The document is entitled "The Easter Game" and it goes as follows:

The strangest weird and eerie tale
Of all the Easter stories
Is this about the "Easter Game"
Of Liberals and Tories.
The Liberals had a crafty plan,
It simply would entail,
A happy Easter holiday
If silence would prevail—

"What's the Word?"

Canada Pension Plan

Too Late to Start Over?

By GEORGE HOGAN

BEFORE we have irretrievably sanded our chances of establishing a national pension plan, it might be useful if everybody involved would sit down calmly and consider the whole problem right from scratch.

At the federal-provincial conference, the Canada Pension Plan was finally and emphatically rejected by the province of Quebec. Quebec, in turn, revealed to the other provinces details of its own plan which we are told is in many ways demonstrably superior to the Canada Pension Plan. Then Premier Robertas indicated that Ontario may come up with a plan that is better still. And Prime Minister Pearson announced he was going to bartered through the Canada Pension Plan regardless of what anybody says.

We thus appear to be on the verge of a welter of competitive pension plans that will make the annual model changes of the automobile industry look like co-operative federalism.

The primary responsibility for this debacle rests with the federal government. This is a field where the main issue is a matter of shared jurisdiction between federal and provincial governments, and where some of the related issues, such as survivor benefits, are matters of purely provincial jurisdiction. It should have been obvious right from the start that a truly national plan could only be arrived at through agreement by the federal government with the provinces—all the provinces. It may be that no such agreement could have been reached. But the attempt was never made. Instead, the federal government proceeded unilaterally all along the way.

Part of the problem has been the political considerations involved. It is an open secret that important elements in the Liberal party are either indifferent or downright hostile to the Canada Pension Plan in its present form. It has long been suspected at Queen's Park that Ottawa is deliberately trying to goad Ontario into rejecting the federal plan.

The theory is that this would give the federal Grits a perfect excuse to get off the pension hook, while at the same time giving them a beautiful chance to blame its demise on the provincial Tories.

But the Quebec conference made it clear that this strategy is based on two very serious miscalculations. In the first place, Premier Lesage's uncompromising performance made it obvious that it is Quebec's outright rejection, not Ontario's qualified acceptance, that is blocking a truly national pension plan.

An attempt to make pension an election issue would put the federal Liberals in the impossible position of offering a poorer plan in Ontario than their provincial counterparts are offering in Quebec.

In the second place, the Liberals have been proceeding all along on the assumption that Ontario's alternative to the Canada Pension Plan would be the privately administered program established last year under the Ontario Pension Benefits Act. Whatever its actuarial merits, this plan undoubtedly had less political appeal than the Canada Pension Plan.

But Mr. Robertas demolished

this assumption at Quebec by making it clear that if Ontario opts out of the federal plan, it will introduce a full scale public plan comparable to the Canada plan and in some ways superior to it. Thus, what looked a while ago like a winning political issue for the Liberals, may have already become a dangerous liability.

It seems to me that it isn't really too late for everybody to start all over again. At the very least, surely all jurisdictions can reach some sort of agreement that will make all these pension plans broadly comparable.

It will be catastrophic for national unity if we end up with widely differing plans, and constant jockeying for competitive advantages among them. Ideally, a national plan applicable in all provinces would still be the best arrangement. If Quebec's leaders would make any compromises at all, I think this could still be done. Quebec's desire basically is to use the pension plan to create a huge investment under its own control. If this is done, other provinces, certain Ontario, will need something comparable to protect their own economic future.

I think we could reconcile these needs by establishing a joint federal-provincial program. Under it the federal government would establish an expanded, tax supported, universal old-age pension. This would meet the need to provide adequate pensions for those who are now too old to accumulate adequate pension credits on a contributory basis.

***

At the same time, by agreement, the provinces would establish universal contributory plans. These would be provincially administered, but would be identical and completely portable with each other. In this way, I believe we could establish a truly national pension plan that would meet Quebec's minimum requirements for autonomy. If Quebec will not yield even this far, then Ontario's government must do what is best for its people. If a satisfactory federal plan can be worked out, I believe Ontario should certainly join it. But no federal plan can be considered satisfactory if it gives Ontario's citizens poorer benefits than their Quebec neighbors, or if it leaves Ontario's economy at a serious disadvantage in investment resources compared to Quebec's.

If the federal government is not prepared to compromise, then obviously Ontario has no choice but to go it alone.

There is no political profit for any party in the present pension morass. Premier Robertas has indicated his willingness to abandon his previously committed position in the already enacted Pension Benefits legislation. If everybody else involved in this issue would do likewise, it might still be possible, through genuine federal-provincial negotiation, to provide for Canadians a real national pension plan.

Of Doubtful Value

A Mixed-Manned Force

By HOWARD GREEN
Former Secretary of State for External Affairs

ONE of these days we are likely to be told that a mixed-manned naval force has been set up under the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. NATO already has powerful naval forces contributed by most of the 15-member nations. For example Canada's ships on the East Coast are committed to the alliance and are under the NATO commander for the Atlantic.

The new plan provides for nuclear-armed surface vessels with mixed crews. Can ships so manned be operated efficiently or will they be floating Towers of Babel? In the end will the plan do the alliance more harm than good? These are some of the questions which come to mind.

It will be quite a departure from the usual type of co-operation among the NATO allies although they are all represented on the military committees of the alliance and on the civilian secretariat.

One might wonder why the experiment is being tried. Certainly not as a means of promoting efficiency. Probably the real reason is to give the Germans a bigger part to play in the alliance in the hope that they will then not demand nuclear weapons under their own independent control.

It is perfectly clear to all nations on both sides of the Iron Curtain that the key issue of the nuclear weapons question is whether or not Germany is to get them under her own control. If she does the prospects of any cold war settlement with the Soviet Union are very dim indeed.

This was one of the main reasons why Canada should not have moved to take nuclear weapons herself, thereby encouraging other nations, including Germany, to demand them. In other words our nation was setting a very bad precedent—while at the same time preaching there should be no spreading of nuclear weapons to nations not possessing them.

For the time being the mixed-manned naval proposal does seem to have satisfied Germany. How long that will be the case is something else again.

The Americans initiated the plan and would supply the ships. They and the Germans would probably provide more crewmen than the other allies participating. These include Italy, Belgium, the Netherlands, Greece and Turkey. The British demurred for a long time and obviously are half-hearted about the plan but now they too have agreed to take part.

On the other hand Canada, Denmark and Norway have opted out and so has France although her refusal is for different reasons: she wants to build her own nuclear force; this is not the first occasion when she has differed with her allies.

Meanwhile the Communist countries taking part in the meetings of the 17-nation Disarmament Committee at Geneva are pointing to the proposal as evidence of the aggressive intentions of the alliance. This of course is nonsense for if the proposal for a mixed-manned naval force does not go ahead the Americans will in any event provide whatever ships are necessary to give the same fire power but will retain sole control over them.

One wonders whether the Communists might not be further ahead if they encouraged the allies to put the plan into effect! It doesn't take much imagination to see the possibilities for trouble on ships with mixed crews; for example it would be very hard for Greek and Turkish seamen to forget about Cyprus and British and German sailors will have a few things to forget as well; this will not be easy in the confinement and close contacts necessary aboard ships.

Even under the Communist system alliances are not all love-feasts—witness Moscow's present troubles with China. However, I hope the NATO mixed-manned force will not lead to quarrelling between the personnel and the nations participating.

Actually I doubt whether NATO will be strengthened by this move. The measures adopted by an alliance require widespread support among the member nations if they are to be successful and in this particular case there seems to be no great enthusiasm for this new force.

Under present world conditions it might be wise to delay implementing the plan. There is a broad realignment taking place in the Communist countries and there are signs of one in the Western world as well. Some nations, and notably the Soviet Union, hitherto heavily engaged in the cold war, now have other things to worry about.

Furthermore there has been quite a relaxation of tension starting with the agreement last year to ban further nuclear weapons tests except those conducted underground. In an atmosphere of this kind emphasis should be placed on throwing out the cold war further—perhaps even attempting to reach agreement on Berlin and certainly on arresting the arms race.

The NATO mixed-manned naval force is not calculated to bring these objectives any nearer.

A Vague Place

Harvard's Bikes

By MAUR HERRON

WHEN we came to Harvard we couldn't get past without stepping out into the traffic. The sidewalk was blocked by bicycles that spilled out of the Co-op vestibule right to the pavement.

The Harvard Co-op is a student shop where you can buy anything an academic gent is ever likely to want or need to buy. It was once known as the Harvard Co-operative Society. It is known now as the Co-op.

What would happen, my friend asked me, if we stacked some of these bikes out in the traffic?

"Either we get punched in the nose by the students or plunked by the cops, but there is only one way to find out," I said. So we started stacking. The policeman not far away stood watching, meekly.

***

At the stroke of the third bicycle clanging to the pavement we were surrounded by Harvard men. Filtered, when they said was: "Would you be good enough, sir, to explain what you are doing with our bikes?"

"We are clearing a way through them and if you don't stop blocking the sidewalk we'll start clearing a way through you," said my friend.

"Wait a minute, Charley," I said quietly. "I can still lick anybody my age and in my condition, but these kids are in good shape. I can't preach with a black eye." So I said to the nearest student, "Son, start clearing the sidewalk."

Like lambs they dug in and began unravelling their bicycles and the one who tipped Charley was in such bad shape it was all he could do to pick his off the street. So I thought to myself, "Why didn't I keep out of it and let Charley start a fight? I could even lick that lad's old mother."

***

We passed the copper on our way to the newstand where they sell the English newspapers and weeklies. "What would you have done if they hadn't backed off?" he asked us. "Called 'em out," I said. "Tossed out a couple more bikes," said Charley. "They're really nice kids," he assured us, "and they have problems. Where do they park their bikes?"

By the time we had made our purchases at the paper stand, the Coop sidewalk was blocked again and a blind man tapped his way into the wire mess and fell on his face. That was too much for the copper. He called in for a truck.

When it came, driver and patrolman striving like piece-workers, tossed the bikes onto the precarious heap. The last one soared through the air and a Radcliffe girl came dashing across the street screaming, "Thief! Bicycle thief! That's my bike, you're stealing!" "Me?" said the kindly copper. "Sister, where did you come from? You weren't even in the Coop."

"Of course I wasn't in the Coop," she screamed in her Radcliffe manner. "I left my bike here to go shopping in Boston."

"Well, if you want to do any more shopping over in Boston, your bike will be waiting for you at the police garage in Central Square," he told her, smiling a great friendly smile and she stood before him puffing and stamping with the faint emphasis proper in Radcliffe girls.

Philosophical young men lingered around the truck, accepting this familiar hardship in relative silence. Being a Harvard man gets tougher as the years pass.

"What happens now?" I asked one of the students.

"Well," he said with mature understanding of the right relation between Town and Gown, "the car towing to Boston is a racket. But the bike lifting in Cambridge is a war of nerves between gentlemen. They understand our problems, we understand theirs and when anything goes wrong, as it did just now, they push us. Usually we do the pushing and they wait us out."

"How do you push?" "Simply by stacking our bikes on the sidewalk. Where else can we put them?"

"Does it cost you to get them back?" "Just a energy and shoe leather. They don't fine us. They just make us come and get them. If your bike disappears when you're off somewhere, maybe it's been stolen but probably it's in Central Square."

The copper drew us off to the side and enlarged on his side of it.

"Warnings do no good," he said. "They have to put their bikes somewhere but they're a danger to foot traffic and now then somebody falls over them and we have to lower the boom. They don't grumble. They reckon that so long as walkers walk round the bikes we'll give them some leeway. But one of these days some old lady or a child is going to step out in front of a car and get maimed or killed, and then there'll be real trouble."

Any one who knows Harvard Square knows it as a vague place full of vague looking people of all ages, like a whole segment of Soho or a purified corner of Greenwich Village. It is a comfortable sort of place where one feels at home and anonymous as one does in London or East Grinstead. Here everyone has something on his mind and is minding it. A large woman in a bikini might even pass unnoticed in a snow storm.

***

"Three weeks ago," said the copper, "there was a guy who parked his bike against the window of that barbershop. It stayed there for days and the barber was going crazy but he didn't like to toss it in the street. Some student . . . well, you know . . . these kids . . . and the professors are much the same. But, after ten days he called us and we picked up the bike."

"Well, the next day this Harvard man came in to report his bike stolen, and tells us he left it against the barber's window. 'Where have you been?' the inspector asks him."

"I've been hiding up in New Hampshire."

"We picked up your bike."

"How very terribly surprising," said the Harvard man.

Leakey's Man

By JOHN DAVY

A THUNDERCLOUD of controversy is building up fast over Olduvai Gorge, Tanganyika, where that indefatigable and provocative excavator, Dr. L. S. B. Leakey, with his enthusiastic assistants, keeps finding new bits of primitive hominids.

Three papers published in Nature detail the latest discovery in Washington. Dr. Leakey and two associates, Professor P. V. Tobias of Johannesburg and Dr. J. R. Napier of London, now claim that a primitive man was living in the gorge over a million years ago alongside a species of ape-man.

In one paper, they propose that this ancestor should be known as Homo Habbis (habilis, Latin — "able, handy, mentally active, vigorous").

They believe that Homo Habbis made and used stone tools, and may even have eaten his more ape-like contemporary, known as Zinjanthropus.

These conclusions will be sharply disputed by anthropologists such as Sir Wilfrid Le Gros Clark and Dr. Kenneth Oakley of the British Natural History Museum, who incline to the view that Leakey's Homo Habbis is really just another, more advanced ape-man of the large group known as Australopithecines (to which Zinjanthropus also belongs).

This school of thought pictures a widespread and diverse Australopithecine population in Africa at the time (related species have been found in South Africa).

They were all upright bipeds with ape-sized brains, some relatively large and lumbering, perhaps mainly vegetarian, others more lightly built, with smaller teeth, beginning to make tools according to a set pattern and eating more meat.

Out of this population, the larger-brained Pithecanthropus emerged, succeeded still later by Homo Sapiens.

The Leakey school, on the other hand, contends that genuine men, who deserve to belong to the genus Homo, already existed alongside the Australopithecine population.

This would push back the divergence of man from ape-men considerably further than Leakey's critics are ready to accept. Whichever interpretation eventually prevails, Leakey and his helpers have now found several fragments of jaws, skulls, teeth, legs, feet and hands of this controversial creature. It had relatively human feet and legs, but rather more ape-like hands.

Some remains were found on a living room floor, with pebbles tools and broken animal bones scattered around. In the centre of the floor was also a skull of the more ape-like Zinjanthropus. The late Margaret Murray suggested that the Zinjanthropus skull may have been some kind of totem for the more advanced tool-makers — "The whole arrangement is strongly suggestive of a shrine with offerings," she wrote.

Did Leakey's Homo Habbis preserve the skull of his more ape-like contemporary, thus preserving not only tool-making but also a religion?

Plaintiff Mrs. E. Campbell Amstrong said she broke a neighborhood agreement when she took off a iron-knocker door.

Children Shot In Camp

FRANKFURT (UPI) — Two Poles who were imprisoned in the Auschwitz concentration camp testified Friday that their Gestapo guards killed women into gas chambers and shot children suspected of stealing food.

One of the defendants at the war crimes trial here, Oswald (Pa) Kaduk, said he caught many prisoners pilfering food.

"I'd bowl them out—and maybe give them 25 lashes," Kaduk said.

Stefan Boratynski, 46, a Polish journalist from Cracow who was an inmate of Auschwitz, recalled watching Kaduk and other Gestapo guards as they met newly-arrived inmates. The Pole said he witnessed the scene after crawling under a train.

SHORT BOY

"Kaduk was at the ramp where he was separating families and kicking women and children toward the gas chambers," Boratynski testified. "Suddenly a little boy about 10 jumped into one of the wagons and came out a moment later with a suitcase. I figured he was stealing some food. All of a sudden there was Kaduk."

"Kaduk ran after him. The boy got caught in a big wire fence. Kaduk came up from behind him and shot him in the neck."

Centennial Symbol Sought

OTTAWA (CP) — A national contest with a top prize of $2,500 for the selection of a 1967 Canadian centennial symbol was announced Thursday by State Secretary Lamontagne.

The symbol will be used on coins and medallions, banners and crests, stationery and souvenirs as well as in advertising and other printed matter.

The competition, which closes May 22, is open to graphic designers living in Canada, or Canadian designers living abroad, as well as Canadian firms operating in the graphic arts field. Second prize is $1,000 and third prize $500.

The announcement said the purpose of the symbol—which must be bilingual—is to "convey the fact that Canadians in 1967 will be marking a century of Confederation."

also restricted four U.S. embassy military attaches to Moscow for alleged spying, including military photographs. Attaches Lt. Col. Stuart Savage, Lt. Col. Edgar Edward Smith and Capt. Edmund Zvetina said the move was in retaliation for their protests against attacks on them by street mobs.

White Rhinos for Alberta?

JOHANNESBURG (Reuters) — Al Oeming, a 33-year-old Canadian wild life conservationist from Edmonton, arrived in South Africa by air Friday with a unique mission—to transplant two white rhinos from Natal's tropical climate to the sometimes frigid weather of Alberta.

Oeming, who has a 1,000-acre game farm outside Edmonton that is populated with caribou, bison, musk ox, camels and gazelles, plans to capture the white rhinos in the Umfolosi game reserve in Natal and ship them to Canada.

"Even though they will be the world's northernmost rhinos we hope to achieve what no one else has done—breed them in captivity," he said.

Oeming said that he is in charge of huge herds of reindeer in Canada, acting on behalf of the Canadian government.

To Three Mayors

Victorian Farris' Messenger

TORONTO (CP) — A former storekeeper, who ran an $800 investment in Northern Ontario Natural Gas Company stock into $400,000, said a Supreme Court jury Friday he acted as messenger for NONG President Ralph K. Farris in delivering 600 shares of the company's stock to officials of three Ontario municipalities in 1957.

G. Kelly McLean of Victoria, former assistant to Farris, testified at Farris' trial on two-perjury charges that the head of the $32,000,000 pipeline company handed him the stock and instructions for its delivery to three mayors and a town solicitor.

One of the charges against the Vancouver financier is that he lied when he told an Ontario government inquiry under oath that he had not directed the distribution of the 600 shares mentioned by McLean.

The 33-year-old Farris also is charged with swearing falsely that he was unaware of the disposition of 14,000 NONG shares in a special account opened with Continental Investments (Convest) of Vancouver in 1957. McLean said the 600 given him came from Convest.

The slight, 54-year-old McLean testified he delivered 150 shares apiece from Farris to Mayors Glen Coats of Bracebridge and Wanda Miller of Gravenhurst and 300 shares to William Moore, partner in a law firm that acted as town solicitor for Orillia.

He said half the Moore shares were for the lawyer and the remaining 150 for Orillia Mayor Wilbur Cramp.

All three municipalities had awarded gas distribution franchises to NONG the year before. The Bracebridge and Gravenhurst mayors have testified to receiving the stock. The two Orillia men are to be called next week.

McLean, who sought the protection of the Canada Evidence Act so that his testimony could not be used against himself, told the court Farris did not tell him why officials were getting the stock. Each was to receive a letter saying it was the "re-sidual balance" of his or her account with Convesto.

Make a Program

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRES

With the garden work crowding in as it always does at this time of the year, it is important to have some sort of program rather than tackling the various different jobs as the spirit moves you. Half an hour spent in the evening assigning priorities will avoid a lot of wasted effort and will save much valuable daylight as the weeks slip by all too quickly.

There is, for instance, no particular hurry yet to sow seeds of biennial or perennial flowers such as Canterbury bells, wallflowers, sweet williams, forget-me-nots, hollyhocks and foxgloves. These plants are not expected to bloom this year anyhow, so the sowing of their seeds can wait until late May or even well on into June.

It is the hardy and half-hardy annuals that require top priority now, for if these are left too late, the summer will be half over before they start to bloom.

One annual flower I wouldn't want to do without is scabious, sometimes known as the pincushion flower on account of its prominent stamens. Three hundred years ago this was a dull purplish-crimson bloom much used in funeral wreaths because of its somber coloring; now it is a gay flower in white, pink, scarlet, mauve, blue and dark maroon.

The annual scabious, in its usual form, will stand 2 to 3 feet tall and about 18 inches spread. Dwarf varieties are available too, just a bit over a foot in height. For mixed colors, the imperial hybrids are the preferred strain.

If single colors are needed to complete a planned color scheme, scabious seeds are available in the following named varieties: Azure Fairy, celestial blue; Black Knight, very dark maroon; Blue Moon, deep lavender; Fire King, scarlet; Peach Blossom, pale pink, and Shasta Improved, pure white. All these are exceptionally long-lasting as cut flowers in water.

Another annual of the easiest possible culture is Lavatera Lovelliana, a member of the mallow family and second cousin to the hollyhock. This is one of the most striking of the hardy annuals, making a bushy plant three feet tall bearing rosy pink flowers similar in shape to the blossoms of the tropical hibiscus. These blooms also last well when cut.

Stocks are a must at our house, and particularly the double white stocks with the spicy fragrance of cloves. These are the "glitterflowers" of Shakespeare's day, invaluable both for garden decoration and for cut flowers.

In the past, the most popular stock were the Dwarf Ten Week, Beauty of Nice, Early Giant Imperial and Perpetual Giant, also known as the cut-and-come-again stocks. These are all good kinds, but with this defect: it is impossible to tell whether a plant will bear double flowers or the unwanted singles until they come into bloom.

Culminating a project started in 1915 by Dr. H. B. Frost at Cornell University, we now can buy seeds of a strain known as the trysonic stocks in which about 65 per cent of the plants will bear double flowers, and this can be stepped up to 100 per cent by discarding the weaker plants in the four-leaf stage. Trysonic stocks are available now in the Giant Imperial variety, with a branching habit of growth and making about 21 feet in height; trysonic column stock, non-branching, and trysonic seven-week stocks, the earliest kind, blooming in just seven weeks from seed and making bushy plants 12 to 15 inches tall.

JACK SMITH Acquires a Tyrant

Gardener Luigi Takes Over

Now that we have a gardener, we don't know how we ever got along without him. He's given direction to our lives, not to mention status. We were drifting.

It isn't clear whether we hired him or he hired us.

We first saw him last Sunday when he rang the doorbell. He was of medium height, with black hair, black mischievous eyes, pink skin and an ample belly. He stood in the doorway, cap in hand, and smiled. His teeth were very white.

"I am a Luigi," he announced as if that settled everything.

My wife has a keener ear for European accents than I have. She took over.

"He's a gardener," she reported in a moment. "He wants to work for us."

She went outdoors with him and the next I saw of them they were down on the second level, waving their arms at each other. They seemed to have worked out a sign language already. I went down to see what it was all about.

Luigi gave me a sad, reproachful look. He stood back and swept his arms out like Enrico Caruso taking a bow.

It was true. The second level looked like the Australian outback. Weeds stood knee high in spots and the gophers had moved in like a tribe of Hopi Indians.

Luigi squatted down and took a pinch of soil between thumb and forefinger. He stood up and rubbed his fingers. The soil fell in a lump of clay.

"I fix," Luigi said. "You no worry."

"Luigi's from Italy," my wife said.

"Roma," said Luigi with a bow. "I am a here two years."

We walked around to the front of the house where the pyracantha, unrestrained for a decade, had encroached on the porch and blacked out a window.

"I cutta da bush," said Luigi. It was an irreversible decision.

"Do you have to?" cried my wife. "We'll lose all our pretty berries. They were gorgeous last Christmas."

Luigi's black eyes grew stormy.

"I'm a da gardener. You no tell a da doctor, eh? You no tell a da lawyer, eh? You no tell a da gardener. You do a da cook."

"The man's right," I said. "The damn bush needs cutting."

Luigi and my wife worked out some vague contract. He is to come once a week, I believe, and do what must be done. We are not to interfere, although we may offer suggestions.

"Well," my wife said later. "Maybe it will work out. It was depressing. I just haven't been able to keep up."

"Leave it to Luigi," I said.

"But I do want to get out and do some gardening of my own," she said. "I'm not doing to give that up."

"Never mind that," I told her. "You do a da cook."

Andrey Hepburn was too thin for too much cheese-cake in Paris When It Sizzles. But they made up for it with co-star William Holden, who bares a large chunk of chest—as you can see if you look at the ads. . . . Sam Brownson's Fall of the Roman Empire fared badly with the New York critics, but the London papers went overboard with one reviewer saying it was the greatest spectacle ever made.

Otto Preminger, who has the most beautiful office in New York, is getting an exact replica at the Paramount studio in Hollywood, even to the marble-top desk he designed himself. In the New York office Otto has three Picasos and a couple of Malisses. I strongly doubt that Paramount will duplicate these.

Claudette Colbert told them in London that she will do a play now and then, and a TV show, but no more films. She has been in England shopping for her beautiful estate in Barbados where she lives most of the year.

Those dates of Myrna Loy and Montgomery Clift mean exactly what they say it means—friendship. There are three bachelors in Manhattan who will marry when the moon turns into cream cheese. And Monty is one of them.

Herbert Wiles was given a reprieve in that bankruptcy petition, until the end of this month. He hopes to come up with a plan to pay his creditors over a period of years. His lovely Park Lane apartment where he entertained me many times with his wife Anna Neagle is on the market for about $90,000.

Bill Hayward at Callaghers with Sal Mineo. It will be a long farewell when Jill goes to Hawaii at the end of next month to star for Otto Preminger in his star-laden picture — John Wayne, Kirk Douglas, Burgess Meredith, Pat Neal — the movie version of the best-seller, in Harri's Way.

Tony Richardson, planning to make Colette's Cherie, has Simone Signoret in mind for the older woman. Natalie Wood for the younger.

Showdown Won By Child

HAYWARD, Calif. (UPI)—The burglar stared into the muzzle of the shotgun. "You wouldn't shoot me, would you?" he asked. "Probably," replied 10-year-old Rose Marie Anello.

Rose Marie had stayed home from school because she didn't feel well. Both parents were away at work when the burglar crawled through a window.

Rose Marie hid in a closet. While the burglar prowled in another room, she went to another closet and got a shotgun.

Then she faced the burglar—who finally turned and fled.

Rose Marie called the sheriff's office. Her shotgun was empty.

Not Using His Noodle

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Comedian Danny Kaye has been "sidelined" by a plate of spaghetti, delaying video-taping session of his television show to Monday from tonight. An amateur cook, he spilled the spaghetti and was burned on his thigh and hand while helping in the kitchen during a party at choreographer Tony Charmoli's home.

B.C. Blind Stand Up to Admit Fear

Price

VANCOUVER (CP)—Blind board, and blind inter-pret this to mean they must get the board's approval before they can sell anything, in-cluding their homes.

He was speaking at a public meeting of 600, attended mainly by blind people, to protest an amendment to the Provincial Blind Act.

The amendment makes non-approved appeals for funds for the blind illegal, but its critics say it could also interfere with the freedom of blind individuals by allowing a three-man board to control their economic lives.

All appeals to help the blind must be approved by the

About 100 people stood up when Mr. Birch asked blind people in the audience to stand if what he said about fear of the CNIB was true.

Social Credit MLA Bert Price of Vancouver Bayard defended the Act but drew only hoots and catcalls.

MP Queries Betrayal

LONDON (UPI)—Emanuel Shinwell, Britain's defence minister during the Korean war, served notice Friday that he plans to raise purported charges of betrayal against the British by the late Gen. Douglas MacArthur in the question to Foreign Secretary R. A. Butler and asked that it be answered in Commons Monday. The question asked Butler to state what representations have been received by the foreign office since 1951 alleging that information on U.S. policy in Korea was conveyed to Peking from British sources.

$14,000,000 Tax-Free In Mac-Powell Dividends

By HARRY YOUNG
Colonist Business Editor

A plan by MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River to pay nearly $14,000,000 in tax-free dividends to its shareholders was announced along with the company's annual report Friday.

Shareholders are to be asked at the annual meeting to support a resolution which would allow Mac-Powell to authorize the creation of 13,705,347 redeemable preference shares of $1 par.

The report says the company has accumulated a tax-paid undistributed income over the years valued at about 65 cents per ordinary share.

AMALGAMATION

Most of this undistributed income arose out of the 1951 amalgamation of H. R. MacMillan Export with Bloedel, Stewart and Welch. If the shareholders approve the company will issue the new redeemable preference shares to holders of ordinary shares of record May 15, on the basis of one preference share for each five shares held.

The company plans to make payments on these shares over a period of years each Dec. 15 until the preference shares are called for redemption.

NOT AVAILABLE

Figures as to the amount of each dividend were not available.

The Mac-Powell report for 1963 said net earnings after tax provisions were $36,660,078 ($1.76 a share) against $36,081,809 ($1.73) in 1962.

Earnings before taxes were $72,322,517 against $69,825,690 a year earlier. The company announced its reserve for deferred income taxes was $43,146,988, an increase of $4,931,513 on the year.

OTHER SOURCES

Total income from products and other sources was $349,368,341 against $330,668,043 in 1962. Depreciation, depletion and amortization of logging roads was listed at $22,488,653, against $21,514,897.

The company said the payment of tax free dividends would not affect the dividend policy on the ordinary shares. It was proposed this should continue at the rate of $1 a year (25 cents a quarter).

MAYFAIR PROFIT

A profit of $14,108 was made in 1963 by the company which operated the Mayfair Shopping Centre, Ltd. in Victoria.

Canadian Allied Property Investments Ltd. is the parent company of the new Douglas Street shopping centre and also of the Prestige Ridge Estates Ltd. which is building a similar shopping centre at the Guildford estate in Surrey. P. R. Blaisden, president in the annual report to the shareholders, made the announcement.

ONLY 10 WEEKS

The accounts covered only the first 10 weeks of operations at the Mayfair Shopping Centre, which opened last October.

"While this is too short a period upon which to base firm predictions, the board believes its hopes for this development have, thus far, been fully justified and consequently there is confidence in the future success of the centre," said Mr. Blaisden.

Work on the company's Guildford property is scheduled to start this year, with Woodward's Stores, as at Mayfair, the centre piece.

Railways Set Deadline

OTTAWA (CP)—The major railways have given the federal government until June 30 to bring in legislation on proposals of the MacPherson royal commission on transportation, Commons was told Friday.

Transport Minister Pickersgill said the railways agreed recently to continue until June 30 freight rates at a level set under the 1959 "roll-back" subsidy.

This subsidy, amounting to about $16,000,000 a year, has been paid since the previous Conservative government imposed a freeze on freight rate increases.

Under the subsidy, the railways rolled back the effect of an authorized 17-per cent freight rate boost to about eight per cent.

Gagliardi Tells Loggers:

Bigger Truck Loads Mean Bigger Taxes

KELOWNA (CP)—Highways Minister Gagliardi warned logging truckers two things could happen if they continued to persist in greater load limits for trucks: The highways could suffer and truckers' taxes probably would go up.

The minister, addressing the annual meeting of the Interior Logging Association, said B.C. has 25,000 miles of highways "built and maintained at tremendous cost."

LICENCE STUDY

Earlier, A. J. Bowering, deputy minister of commercial transport, in an address to the meeting said the government is studying requests of logging operators to be able to obtain monthly licences for the year by quarters, particularly the March-to-May period.

Mr. Bowering also said one matter on which the highways department wanted co-operation was the keeping of the allowable tandem weight on highways under 40,000 pounds.

CONT MORE TAXES

"If we destroy the bases of these roads it will cost you more taxes to rebuild them."

"You don't want this," the minister said. "You don't want greater load limits if it means the destruction of your highways."

Mr. Gagliardi made it plain

Chief Says Wire-Tap Vital in Crime Fight

EDMONTON (CP)—Chief Constable M. F. E. Anthony of Edmonton city police said Friday that when criminal elements start using the telephone to further crime, police must then tap their telephone conversations.

Chief Anthony said Edmonton's wire-tapping bylaw, approved by city council last year to help police track down "habitual criminals," is used only when no other method of detection is possible.

"There are sections of the Criminal Code which make it an offence to use the telephone for gambling, threats, prostitution, and indecent phone calls to women. There is no way of detecting these crimes except through the wire-tap."

Dodgers Yankees Favored

NEW YORK (AP)—Los Angeles Dodgers will again win the National League pennant after a tight, three-way struggle with San Francisco Giants and St. Louis Cardinals and will then meet New York Yankees in the world series for a second straight year.

That's the script prepared for the 1964 major league baseball season by the 294 sports-writers and broadcasters who voted in the Associated Press annual preseason baseball poll.

GIANTS CLOSE UP
Voting indicates the Dodgers will nip the Giants and Cardinals to become the first National League club to repeat as champions since Milwaukee Braves in 1956.

But the vote was close. Based on 10 points for being chosen first and nine for second down to one for being placed last, the Dodgers had 3,634 points to 2,572 for the Giants and 2,318 for the Cardinals. The Dodgers were picked first by 102 voters, the Giants by 101 and the Cardinals by 52.

Far back came the second-line trio of Milwaukee, Cincinnati Reds and Philadelphia Phillies, in that order. Then came Pittsburgh Pirates, Chicago Cubs, Houston Colts and, again bringing up the rear, Casey Stengel and his New York Mets.

BIG MARGIN
According to the poll, the Yankees will have things easier than the Dodgers. The Yankees received 205 first-place votes as compared to the 39 given Minnesota Twins and the 28 given Chicago White Sox.

Balance of the American League lined up behind the top three this way—Detroit Tigers, Baltimore Orioles, Cleveland Indians, Boston Red Sox, Los Angeles Angels, Kansas City Athletics, Washington Senators.

Washington Senators, as usual, get things started on Monday by hosting the Angels in the American League opener.

Just a Memory

While old New York Giant fans stared in morbid fascination, wrecking crew began demolishing storied Polo Grounds yesterday, making room for 30-story apartment building where once baseball greats like John McGraw, Christy Mathewson, Carl Hubbell, Mel Ott and Willie Mays once ruled. New York Mets, tenants for past two years, move into new Shea Stadium next week.

High Scores Win Cash For Bonspiel Bowlers

Four bowlers, including two from Up-Island teams, will receive special cash prizes for their accomplishments in The Daily Colonist's first annual Vancouver Island Tenpin Bonspiel, which ends today at Mayfair Lanes with semi-finals at 4 this afternoon and the finals at 7.

Jamie Walker of Courtenay Chrysler, runner-up for the provincial men's temple championship, will receive $10 for rolling the bonspiel's high men's single, a rousing 265 in his last match which came after he had started off with 153 and 137 games.

Other high men's singles were the 235 rolled by Frank Homanduk of Duncan Bowling Centre, the 244 by Charlie Cowie of Speedway Motors and Pat Fraser of Duncan Bowling Centre and the 242 by Charlie Stephens of Courtenay Chrysler.

Leona Peterson, who bowled for the Victoria team entered as the LBREX, also receives $10 for the 237 which was the high single for distaff bowlers. Freda Peacock of Mayfair Flower Shop, who also had a 210 game, was next with 217. Jeanne Gerard of Nanaimo bowled a pair of 214 games and Peggy Trickett and Dot Bennett of Amalgamated bowlers both had 218.

Although missing the prize for women's high single, Mr. Gerard won $15 for women's cover Sunday for a match that will help settle the question of first place in the Pacific Coast Soccer League. If Vancouver Firefighters beat United, Firemen will end up tied for the lead with Vancouver Canadians, forcing a playoff. If United wins, the title goes to Canadians.

For three Lower Island Junior and Juvenile Soccer Association teams, victories Sunday would mean berths in the annual B.C. Tournament of Champions.

Oak Bay Optimists of Division I play Brechen Lions at 12:15 in Nanaimo. Canadian Scottish of Division IV plays New Westminster on the mainland at 1 p.m., and Gorge takes on Richmond Wanderers in a Division VI match at 2 p.m. in Richmond.

Victoria United goes to Vancouver Sunday for a match that will help settle the question of first place in the Pacific Coast Soccer League. TORONTO—Gordie Howe is no stranger to pressure. Through most of his long career with Detroit Red Wings he has been the man they looked to when the going got rough.

Tonight, the Red Wings open the Stanley Cup final against Toronto Maple Leafs, and much of the burden must fall on Howe, the greatest scorer in the history of hockey.

Leafs are favored tonight and in the best-of-seven series for a number of reasons—home ice for the first two games and four of the seven if it goes that far, a great record against Wings this season and a 4-1 victory over the same club in last year's final.

But the biggest reason of all is that they've managed to stop Howe cold. In 14 tries against Toronto this season, Howe has yet to score a goal, and it's significant that Detroit's record against Leafs is three wins, three ties and eight losses.

Tonight's game will be carried in its entirety on Channels 2 and 6 and on CBU radio (680) starting at 5 p.m., according to the CBC.

Red Wings got by Chicago Black Hawks in the semi-final on superlative efforts by Howe and Normie Ullman. Howe scored five times and had six assists in the seven games, and if he is stopped in the final the chances are the Wings will be stopped too.

Coach Sid Abel was guarded optimistic about his club's chances, but even Abel would only say "we just might win it, you know."

SAWCHUK DOUBTFUL
Much depends on the condition of goalie Terry Sawchuk, who still has that pinched nerve in his shoulder and is also recovering from a job by Chicago's Reg Fleming which put him out of Thursday's game in the second period.

Abel still wasn't sure late last night whether it would be Sawchuk or Roger Crozier in goal tonight.

It was a different story in the Toronto camp, where Punch Imlach pronounced everyone healthy and said he would go with the same lineup he used Thursday.

HEAD FUN
Leafs held a light workout yesterday, but it was more like a holiday than a training session, with players chasing each other around the ice, whooping and hollering about their win over Montreal.

"The Wings will be tough," Imlach said. "But the way we played Thursday convinces me we've got a good shot at the cup."

If Leafs can get past the Wings, it will be their third straight Stanley Cup championship. But the Red Wings are still in the way, and the big man still thinks they can topple the champs.

"We're tired, every one of us," said the 35-year-old Howe, who explained how he plays so well at his age with a simple "It hurts."

"But the Leafs had to go through a seven-game series, just as we did. They've got to be tired, too."

Second game will be played here Tuesday night. The clubs then go to Detroit for games Thursday and Saturday. Normally, weekend games in the U.S. are played Sundays, but this one was switched to Saturday in facilities television coverage.

If necessary, the fifth game will be played the following Tuesday in Toronto, the sixth in Detroit on Thursday and the seventh back in Toronto Saturday, April 25.

Tory MP Says:

Big Market In China For Canada

VANCOUVER (CP)—Canada is in a position to step up its sales to Communist China on a scale dwarfing already enormous wheat shipments, former agriculture minister Alvin Hamilton said Friday.

"The expectations we have had about future trade with China have, if anything, been too pessimistic," Mr. Hamilton told a press conference, following his return from a visit to China. "There is a great future for Canadian products produced by Canadian companies."

If Canada takes advantage of opportunities being offered, Mr. Hamilton said, "the demand factor from China for Canadian agricultural products will be very small in relation to industrial products and other products we have."

At the same time, the grain trade would itself grow bigger.

B.C. Fails To Get Message

L. D. Fraser, vice-president of Imperial Oil Ltd., said yesterday the difference in gasoline prices in different parts of B.C. was due to freight charges.

Mr. Fraser was clarifying statements made Thursday to the Consumers Association of Canada.

He said people in eastern Canada realize the reason for varying gasoline prices in different parts of the province, but those in B.C. do not.

"We have learned about freight in the east, but have been unsuccessful in passing on our knowledge to B.C.," said Mr. Fraser.

Mr. Fraser said freight costs depend not only on distance, but also on means of transportation. He said it is far cheaper to ship by water than it is by truck.

He added that due to the larger share of the gross national product taken by the government—five or six times what it was in the 19th century—the public should look carefully to assure it gets its value from this large amount of money.

CPR Liner Starting New Season

The CPR cruise liner Princess Patricia will start her second season on the Vancouver-Alaska run May 6 with a five-day charter cruise to Prince Rupert with Shriners.

May 11 she will sail on a five-day charter cruise to Ketchikan.

Her first regular cruise to Skagway will begin May 17, followed by a charter to the B.C. Medical Association for a cruise to Ketchikan, sailing May 28. She will then make 12 regular sailings.

Cafe Men Having A Ball

If Victoria's restaurant men have a lean and hungry look these days, it isn't from malnutrition.

It's just that the annual red letter day of the year for anybody who likes to eat is Tuesday, and this year it's expected to be bigger and better than ever.

CURLING CLUB

Restaurateurs from the Victoria area, Vancouver Island and the Lower Mainland, others in the food industry and many dignitaries—about 500 people in all—will crowd the Victoria Curling Club Tuesday for the annual Culinary Arts Ball.

The event, sponsored by the Vancouver Island branch of the Canadian Restaurant Association, gives Victoria's best chefs their annual opportunity to display their best creations and pit their skills against each other for certificates of merit.

LITTLE EARLIER

The ball is being held somewhat earlier than usual this year in order to tie in to some extent with Victoria's Spring Flower Festival, and the hall will be decorated in a flower motif, complete with a flower-decked fountain on the dance floor.

Festivities—including the viewing of the chefs' creations, the eating of them and dancing—go on from 7 p.m. to 1 a.m. Victoria organist Reg Stone will play during viewing, eating and intermission, and dancing music will be provided by the Skyliners.

Fast Time April 26

Daylight saving time goes into effect for this summer April 26.

Before going to bed Saturday night, April 25, B.C. residents should put their clocks ahead one hour. Daylight saving runs through Oct. 25 when clocks will be put back again one hour.

Answers in Thousands

City Tax Office Popular Place

Nobody likes paying taxes, but figures seem to indicate Victoria's income tax office is one of the most popular places in town.

From Jan. 2 to the close of business Thursday, 6,682 taxpayers had questions answered personally by counter staff at the revenue department's income tax offices in the Belmont Building.

Another 3,001 citizens had their questions answered by a telephone team in the same period, a revenue department statement said Friday.

NEARLY THREE

"Since the February and March figures are nearly three times the January ones, it is likely the month of April will be a busy time indeed."

The statement said the rush was anticipated. Local staff of the taxation office is able to increase the help it can give taxpayers now actual filed tax returns are processed electronically in Ottawa, the statement said.

SOMEWHAT BELOW

"Interestingly enough, the volume of queries to date this year is somewhat below that of 1963, a fact perhaps in part due to the department's special pamphlet mailed a few weeks ago to every taxpayer to simplify tax filing."

The statement includes a reminder that this year for the first time taxpayers who owe taxes and file early can attach cheques postdated to April 30, the tax deadline.

15 Canadians

Sooke Pupil on 'Hate' List

A 17-year-old Sooke school district student is one of 15 Canadians named by the Canadian Jewish Congress as a distributor of "hate" literature. The Congress is seeking federal legislation to stop distribution by the 15—13 from Ontario and one from Nova Scotia.

A Congress spokesman in Vancouver declined to comment on the investigation of the people named but said his group was "familiar" with the Sooke situation.

Last month, school board officials said there had been anti-semitic literature distributed in a Sooke district school.

Lawyer Sydney Harris, who released the names during a speech in Toronto Thursday, said evidence against the 15 was collected during a Congress investigation over the past several months.

He renewed the Congress' call for federal legislation to make the distribution of anti-semitic and other "hate" literature an offence under the Criminal Code.

Seven of those named by the Congress denied having anything to do with the alleged anti-semitic campaign. One declined comment, while the remaining seven were not immediately available.

Harris identified the leader of the group as a 18-year-old Scarborough, Ont., youth, whom he described as "an infant in law and in fact whose post office box privileges have been recently cancelled by the postmaster-general."

Also named was a Toronto

man, "a former and, happily, defunct candidate for the federal government."

Harris said the Congress had compiled a list of between 35 and 50 names and turned it over to the Ontario attorney-general's and federal justice departments.

He declined to release all the names because some "are no doubt innocent inquirers, self-appointed amateur investigators or more curious seekers."

The wife of one of the men on the list said she and her husband "had enough of that kind of thing in Germany" and had not expected it in Canada.

"It is nonsense to say my husband or I distribute anti-Jewish literature," she said. Mr. Harris emphasized the Congress realizes those named have committed no offence under the law as it now exists. "We now repeat our request for amendments in the law so society may be protected against these breaches of that previous freedom of expression which none of us wishes to see sacrificed on the altar of licence," he said.

Shipyard Peace Terms Secret

Terms of a strike settlement proposal made Thursday by a government official to the parties in the B.C. shipyards strike are being kept confidential for the time being.

James McConechy, president of the Victoria Metal Trades Council, said last night deputy labor minister William Sande has asked that his suggestions to end the strike not be released.

The 22 unions involved in the strike will confer in Victoria Tuesday on the proposal.

Some 2,000 workers have been on strike against Yarrows and Victoria Machinery Depot in Victoria and Burrard Dry Dock in North Vancouver since early February.

Cyclist Treated

Cyclist Keith Hildebrand, 13, of 240 Robertson, was treated at Royal Jubilee Hospital after being involved in a collision with a car at Fort and Morrison Streets yesterday afternoon.

Mailmen Jeeping To 1,000

About 1,000 households in the Glen Lake-Esquimalt Lagoon areas will receive regular home delivery of mail beginning next month.

Daily delivery of letters, parcels and any necessary special delivery mail will begin before the end of May, says local postmaster Allan Davies. The deliveries will be made by postmen in jeep-type mailmobiles.

Lagoon and Glen Lake sub-post offices will be replaced by full post office services and about 15 letter-drop boxes will be installed in the districts, Mr. Davies says.

Downtown

Tows Start Monday

Motorists unfortunate enough to be parked in no-stopping zones during the morning rush hour Monday may discover an empty space where they left their cars—they will have been towed away.

A special meeting in city hall has decided to take action Monday in another step to ensure a free flow of traffic. Main areas to be affected will be along Fort Street and Pandora.

These and other streets also have no-stopping signs governing afternoon rush hours. Motorists who lose their cars will have to pay a traffic fine and, in addition, towing charges.

Victoria Super Service at Douglas and Queens is in charge of towing operations.

Fall Hurts Visitor

Mrs. D. W. MacBean of Powell River required medical treatment for a sprained leg muscle yesterday after she fell down several stairs in the Empress Hotel.

Her husband is a delegate to the Forest Products Safety Council currently in session at the hotel.

Miss Victoria Deadline Tonight

Clock Is Running Out On Cinderella Dreams

When the clock strikes midnight tonight, the Cinderella dreams of some Victoria girls may turn into pumpkins. So to speak.

That is, if they haven't entered the Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce Miss Victoria contest. Because midnight tonight is the deadline. Entries this year are expected to be more than 30.

Preliminaries for the contest will be held April 17 at the Empress Hotel.

The winner of the contest will receive a formal gown, a $150 bursary and clothes given by local merchants. Each of the 10 finalists will receive a color portrait of herself, a pair of shoes and a beauty kit.

Among the latest of the contestants are government employee Trudi Friedl, 19, of 2621 Richmond; bank clerk Armande Marie Lavertu, 17, of 1365 Rockland; bank clerk Lois Marie Gardner, 20, of 942 Selkirk, and waitress Valerie Vaughan-Evans, 18, of 1919 Lee.

Victoria Mill Safest

The outstanding performance, according to safety award judges, was the Burnaby operation of Macmillan, Bloedel and Powell River with 0.0 ratings in both division classes and overall cumulative sections.

Other awards for Island operations went to:

● Macmillan, Bloedel and Powell River, Port Alberni, for sawmill over 750,000 man-hours, frequency rate of 1.20.

● Tahsis Co., Port Alberni, sawmill under 250,000 man-hours, frequency rate of 0.0.

● Western Forest Industries, shingle mill class, frequency rate of 13.89.

● Macmillan, Bloedel and Powell River, Soan Lake shingle mill, frequency rate of 13.89.

The Tahsis Co. and Northwest Cedar Products Ltd. of Port Alberni also received special awards for zero frequency in the sawmill and pole yard divisions in 1963.

1,000 Here

Sikhs Start Year

Sikhs from Vancouver Island and the mainland—more than 1,000 in all—are celebrating their three-day new year festival of Baisakhi.

The year of "new birth" began at 10 a.m. yesterday and was marked by the traditional reading of the Guru Granth Sahib, the Sikh sacred book, in their temple on Topaz.

Giani Hira Singh officiated at the religious services.

Games and sports, including a soccer game at the S. J. Willis School grounds, will mark the celebrations today. Mahinder Singh Pandhawa, temple secretary, said yesterday.

A religious service Sunday will end the festival.

Jobs Awarded At Airport

Two contracts were awarded this week for landscaping and furnishing the Patricia Bay Airport building.

A $32,205 contract for landscaping will be carried out by Conniston Construction Co. Ltd., Ottawa. The Robert Simpson Co. Ltd. of Burnaby was a successful bidder, at $18,575.15, for supply and installation of furnishings.

Youngsters Aid Oldsters In May 2 Centre Drive

Victoria's youngsters will make an all-out effort to help the city's oldsters May 2, when 3,000 young citizens are expected to stage a canvass for donations for the proposed $198,000 Senior Citizens' Activity Centre.

It is up to senior citizens to raise one-third of the total, or $65,000, toward the centre. The other two-thirds will be donated equally by the provincial government and the city of Victoria.

About $15,000 has so far been collected.

Boys and girls aged 10 to 13 have been asked to assist in the canvass, and any youngster who wants to help out can get information on the canvass by phoning EV 6-6531.

Fifty bicycles have been donated as prizes for the youngsters who collect the most money in their districts, and all children who participate will be treated to a special show at the Odeon Theatre.

A "silver thread" of coins will also be formed May 2 when a tag day is held in the city, with donations lined up along the curb on both sides of Douglas Street. It is hoped the silver thread will swell the fund by stretching along many downtown city blocks.

Jack Philion is in charge of enlisting youngsters for the one-day blitz.

Northern Homesteader Glamorous Housewife

VANCOUVER (CP)—A glamorous young housewife named Judy Peake, who lives among the mountain peaks and helps guide hunters, came to town and said:

"I got lost in the city," Mrs. Peake, visiting the city for the first time in two years, says she's not sure she likes it. "All the buildings look the same. In the country the mountains and trees are all different and you have something to find your way by."

Apart from guiding hunters with husband Herb, Mrs. Peake belongs to the vanishing breed of Canadian homesteader.

The young couple, both six-footers with the outdoors in their blood, are settling a 1,300-acre ranch at Pink Mountain, near Mile 143 of the Alaska Highway. She calls it "a sizeable section of moose pasture" where moose still roam and meat is no problem.

FATHER WAS GUIDE
Mrs. Peake was raised at Tete Jaune, B.C., in the Rockies, where her father guided American hunting parties. Five years ago she met her husband who was working on an oil rig. They decided to ranch, but he still works at drilling during the winter.

Herb makes it home about once a month in winter—depending on the weather—and his pretty wife sometimes goes weeks without seeing another human.

"I'm too busy to be lonely and anyway the nearest neighbors are five miles away, a long distance when the snow is deep and the temperature is around 40 or 50 below," she said.

Herb and Judy augment their income by guiding hunting parties. On the trail she cooks, he guides; they both hunt, fish and handle pack trains.

Mrs. Peake takes in her stride things that would fella city folk.

"I carry water from the creek, stoke a stove and travel 150 miles to buy groceries," she doesn't worry about meat supplies—just goes out and shoots a moose, and then cans it. Her pin money comes from shooting rabbits or trapping.

Asked how she manages to look like a model, Judy explained:

"I live in jeans and riding boots but as regular as breakfast I put on my makeup and do my hair, even if I know I won't be seeing anyone but the horses."

Mrs. Bell Honored At LOBA Meeting

Mrs. Edna Bell of Victoria, grand mistress, stressed loyalty and fraternity in her speech as chairman of the three-day session of the 42nd annual meeting of the Right Worshipful Grand Lodge of Ladies' Orange Benevolent Association of B.C., held in Burnaby.

A past mistress dinner was held on first evening with Miss M. Johnston of Vancouver guest speaker. Highlight of the evening was a drill display by juvenile lodges from Abbotsford, Newton, Vancouver and North Vancouver with some 70 girls taking part. Representing Victoria were the Misses Berna Hawes, Teresa White and Rhonda McFerran. Mrs. Bell and Mrs. E. Noel, grand juvenile director, were guests of honor along with all past juvenile directors.

A special degree ceremony, conducted by Mrs. E. Eagles of Kamloops, followed the drill.

Prior to the official opening, Mrs. Bell was escorted into the ballroom of the Villa Court Hotel by her two daughters, Mrs. E. Cawsey and Mrs. E. Story, both of Victoria. During this ceremony a drill team, composed of past mistresses of Vancouver, demonstrated a seating of officers drill, symbolizing the 'Maple Leaf'. It terminated in a guard of honor for their leader, Mrs. Bell. Mrs. E. McMillan, Victoria, was soloist for various ceremonies during the affair.

Mrs. M. Paterson, Victoria, welcomed the large delegation and conveyed greetings of the Grand Lodge to Mrs. Bell.

Reports on welfare work by the various representatives in the province were read. Reports on the lodge's main projects, the Loyal Protestant Home for Children at New Westminster and the proposed rest home for senior citizens, showed progress.

Mrs. M. Slater, Nanaimo, presided over the election of officers. Mrs. E. Hume of Victoria was in charge of installations. Mrs. Bell was presented with a framed address along with a past grand mistress's collar. Mrs. M. Grady was pianist for the sessions.

Church service was held the morning of the second day.

Officers for 1964-65 are as follows: Mrs. Kirkland, North Surrey, grand mistress; Mrs. E. Bell, Victoria, immediate past grand mistress; Mrs. B. Lester, Vancouver, deputy grand mistress; Mrs. L. Scott, Nanaimo, junior deputy grand mistress; Mrs. N. Pelly, Chilliwack, grand secretary; Mrs. R. Doe, Salmon Arm, grand treasurer; Mrs. G. Martin, Vancouver, grand chaplain; Mrs. J. Humphreys, Vancouver, grand deputy secretary; Mrs. A. Stubbs, Vancouver, grand deputy treasurer; Mrs. I. Webb, Kamloops, grand director of ceremonies; Mrs. F. Van Horn, North Surrey, and Mrs. E. Halliday, South Burnaby, grand lecturer and deputy lecturer; Mrs. A. L. Sharpe, New Westminster, grand juvenile director; Mrs. J. Patterson, Fort St. John, Mrs. M. Howard, North Vancouver, and Mrs. M. Craig, Nanaimo, auditors.

IS ONE FACE CREAM "JUST AS GOOD" AS ANOTHER?
True, lots of creams are similar in doing a surface job only. But if your need is for a treatment cream that will effectively halt early-aging signs such as crow's feet, little lines, flakiness, then POND'S DAY SKIN CREAM is the answer. This famous cream, now with Allantoin, goes to work in just 10 minutes to repair skin robbed of natural moisture. Allantoin floats off lifeless surface skin cells... speeds penetration of Pond's rich moisturized lanolin to thirsty tissues far below. Almost overnight, skin dried out by harsh weather, indoor heat, low-fat diets, regains its softness, smoothness... looks young again! Use POND'S DAY SKIN CREAM regularly. In jar or tube, wherever cosmetics are sold.

Birth in 1919? Anastasia Test Refused

HAMBURG, Germany (UPI)—A court of last resort Friday rejected an attorney's proposal that a woman claiming to be the Grand Duchess Anastasia of Russia be examined to determine if she ever had a baby.

The court is examining medical evidence on Anna Anderson's claim that she is the youngest daughter of the last czar, Nicholas.

SNOOK HEAD

A lawyer opposing the Anderson claim for recognition of royal lineage suggested Chief Judge Gustav Petersen have doctors determine if she ever had a child.

Petersen, chief judge of the Hamburg state court of appeals, which is giving Miss Anderson her last chance to present evidence, shook his head.

IMPOSSIBLE

"I have been informed by medical experts it would be impossible now to determine if a woman gave birth in 1919," Petersen said.

Miss Anderson, 62, has said she bore a child by the Bolshevik guard who saved her from the firing squad that killed the royal family.

Most history books say the firing squad killed the entire Romanoff family, including Anastasia.

Two-Day Horse Show Planned for Holiday

A two-day horsemanship will be staged by the Victoria Riding Academy on Victoria Day weekend.

The show will be judged by Norman Drysdale of Vancouver, with junior events taking place on Sunday, May 17, and senior open events to be judged on Monday.

Highlight of Monday's events will be Puisseance jumping calling for from six to eight large obstacles for the horses to clear. The obstacles are to be at least four feet seven inches high except for the first jump and a time limit is set on running of the course.

The event is expected to bring out some of the finest jumping horses and riders in the province.

Full programs have been drawn up for both days, starting at 9 a.m. and continuing through the afternoon.

There will be a number of hack events, including a local ladies' hack and an event for horses under and over 15.2 hands.

Also included on the program will be an Arabian costume class, saddle pairs, thoroughbred saddle horse classes, jumping, maiden jumping, working hunter, open conformation, hunter, green hunter, pair jumpers, novice jump teams of three and six-bar jumpers.

The show will take place in the rings at the academy off Cedar Hill Road.

Big Pension Fund Seen for Quebec

QUEBEC (CP)—The Quebec portable pension plan could have an investment fund of more than $8,000,000 within 30 years of its inauguration, it is estimated in a report tabled in the legislative assembly Friday.

The report — first of three from teams of actuaries and economists — said the Quebec plan could provide a maximum pension of $1,500 a year to persons 65 and over.

Premier Lesage tabled the report, plus a comparative analysis of the Quebec and federal government plans which he read to the federal-provincial fiscal conference last week.

The Quebec plan also puts emphasis on benefits to widows and orphans of persons who pay into the plan, which will be compulsory for all working Quebecers.

The plan, it was learned, is not expected to go into operation until at least Jan. 1, 1966. Pension legislation originally forecast for this session will not be introduced this year, Premier Lesage said.

Funeral Rites Monday For City Nonagenarian

Funeral service will be held at 1:30 p.m. Monday for Miss Adele Mortimer, 91, oldest member of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church and daughter of a pioneer Victoria family.

Miss Mortimer died Thursday in St. Joseph's Hospital.

She was born in Topeka, Kan., and came to Victoria with her family, Mr. and Mrs. John Mortimer, founders of Mortimer's Monument Works.

The family moved here in 1877. Miss Mortimer joined the church in 1888.

Miss Mortimer is survived by a niece, Mrs. C. A. Manson, and sister-in-law, Mrs. A. J. Mortimer, of West Vancouver, and a nephew, John Mortimer, of Toronto.

Funeral services will be held in McCall's Funeral Chapel, Dr. J. L. W. McLean officiating.

Two Years for One

A youth was sentenced in city magistrate's court yesterday to two years in the penitentiary when it was disclosed he had a criminal record and was on parole at the time he was found guilty of robbery with violence.

Ronald Moore, 20, of 1315 Stanley, was charged along with George Mazerall, 18, and Clifford LeBlanc, 19, both of the same address.

Moore was found guilty Thursday of robbing a man at knife point at Clover Point last Friday. Mazerall and LeBlanc pleaded guilty to robbery with violence last Friday.

LeBlanc was remanded to April 16 for psychiatric and pre-sentence report, and Mazerall was sentenced to 14 months definite and eight months indeterminate in a young offenders' unit.

"This is a very serious type of offence," said Magistrate William Ostler. "It was planned by the three of you and executed deliberately."

He noted Mazerall had no previous record. "You have had the advantage of being sent to a young offenders' unit before," said Magistrate Ostler to Moore, "but you didn't take that advantage. I have no choice but to send you to the penitentiary."

Two men were fined $300 each and had their driver's licences suspended when they pleaded guilty in city court to impaired driving.

Court was told Neil R. Berry, 3731 Savannah, struck a car stopped at a red light while driving south on Government Thursday night.

Thomas H. D. Armstrong, 344 Berwick, was seen to enter his car which had been parked on the street with its door open. When checked by a policeman he was found to have been drinking and was given a breathalyzer test.

Verna Campbell, 216 Memorial Crescent, was ordered to post a $250 bond to keep the peace for a period of six months when she appeared in city court.

She pleaded guilty on Monday to stealing clothing and other goods to a value of $151.54 from the T. Eaton Co. April 3.

Gary Dwight Lamontagne, 18, of 2632 Douglas, was ordered to post a $250 bond and keep the peace for six months when he appeared in Saanich court Thursday.

He was arrested by Saanich police April 3 and charged with possession of stolen goods under $50 when it was found he had made a car grille out of 36 chrome milkshake holders stolen from the White Spot, 3651 Douglas, over a period of months.

He pleaded guilty to the charge April 3.

A man was fined $50 in Colwood court when he pleaded guilty to supplying liquor to his younger brother, a minor.

Court was told Douglas M. Cornwell, 324 Belmont Road, was found sitting in a parked car with his younger brother John Thursday night when checked by police.

Police had been called after one of the men was seen to throw an empty beer bottle from the car. John Cornwell was fined $20 for being a minor in possession of alcohol.

Home Peace Plan Goulash Affair

LONDON (CP) — If the world has entered the era of "goulash diplomacy" it would be a great gain for humanity to let the best cook win.

Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home, addressing what was described as the largest press luncheon ever held in London, offered his gastronomic tip Friday.

Sir Alec, who has said that a world if ideological differences were allowed to "freeze" all other development.

Quebec Control Legal?

John D Wins Pledge On Eskimo Transfer

OTTAWA (CP) — Opposition leader Diefenbaker urged the government Friday to ask the Supreme Court of Canada to rule on whether the government can transfer control of Eskimo administration to Quebec.

However, he accepted a compromise under which Transport Minister Pickersgill promised to have the law officers of the Crown give a legal opinion on the Eskimo transfer.

Mr. Pickersgill also promised to bring the matter before the cabinet. If there is any doubt

Soviets Plan New Space Spectacular

By HENRY SHAPIRO

UPI

On the third anniversary of man's first flight in space, the Soviet Union is preparing a new manned space spectacular—possibly involving two spaceships and a link-up in orbit.

The new space voyage could be timed as a birthday salute to Premier Nikita Khrushchev, who will be 70 on Friday, April 17. But informed sources said it is more likely to come later this year.

On April 12, 1961, Maj. Yuri Gagarin became the world's first space traveler, making a single orbit around the earth in a Soviet Sputnik satellite and returning safely to Soviet territory.

That gave the Russians a headstart in the space race. Now, exactly three years later, intensive preparations are under way in the Soviet Union for a new space venture aimed at putting the Russians away ahead of the U.S. in the conquest of the Cosmos.

Informed sources said it probably would involve two manned spaceships and an orbital link-up.

Col. Yuri Gagarin, the world's first cosmonaut, has published a number of broad hints about the forthcoming space venture but in keeping with Soviet custom has failed to indicate its nature.

At the same time Western reconnaissance systems have detected "unusual activity" in Russia's principal launching area at Kalmuk, in the southern steppe of the central Asian republic of Kazakhstan.

Gagarin and fellow cosmonaut Col. Gherman Titov have said that their Vostok spaceship can be adjusted to accommodate more than one passenger. The Soviet Union already has developed an automatic test satellite—Polyot-1—which can perform maneuvers in space.

In a recent interview, a top authority on the Soviet space program said by 1970 Moscow expects to have established a series of orbiting stations around the earth.

This authority, who was not identified in the Russian interview, said such orbiting stations would be capable of housing scientific teams and could serve as base points for more distant and longer flights.

Space scientist M. Litvin-Sedoy said in a published Soviet commentary on Polyot-1:

"The further development of spaceships will, undoubtedly, lead to the emergence of space stations—big lasting Sputniks, which will serve as intermediary take-off and landing sites for long distance spacecraft."

In August, 1962, Maj. Andrian Nikolayev and Lt. Col. Pavel Popovich were rocketed into space successfully and succeeded in maneuvering their ships within eyeshot of each other as they whirled around the earth.

Western observers suspect that last year's joint flight of pioneer spacewoman Valentina Terezhkova and Valery Bykov failed to achieve a link-up because the planes of their orbits were not properly coordinated.

This year Valentina will be grounded by her pregnancy. She and her husband, Nikolayev, are expecting their first "space-child" sometime in June. The identity of the next space man or woman remains a mystery.

Ten young men, several with crew-cuts, and four young women—one a stunning redhead—were spotted by foreign newsmen at Valentina's wedding. They were all prospective cosmonauts.

On a visit to Poland last autumn, Capt. Terezhkova said jokingly that women "will go up in spaceships with mixed crews, so the men will not be bored."

"They are beautiful girls," she added.

Despite expected cutbacks in the current budget, the Soviet Union does not appear to have abandoned its long range space plans.

Physicist Litvin-Sedoy recently forecast flights to Mars and Venus aboard "fantastic carriers as high as the 33-storey Moscow State University and with a total engine capacity of hundreds of millions of horsepower."

The late president Kennedy suggested that the Soviet Union and the United States join forces in flying to the moon. But the Russians have made agreement on such a joint venture contingent on progress toward disarmament.

"We are paying due attention to the U.S. suggestion for joint flights to the moon," a Moscow radio broadcast said. "But to do it would naturally mean an agreement on disarmament."

"Why? Because rockets which are the basic means of studying space are also, unfortunately, major war weapons."

Should the next Soviet space probe succeed, the Kremlin probably will raise the ante for any meaningful cooperation in joint space exploration, foreign observers in Moscow believe.

More Aid For Albernis As Donations Recorded

AM continues to come in for the flood-hit Albernis Valley and another $2,754 in donations has been received.

PORT ALBERNI — A telephone call today to Mayor Les Hammer from Ivan Clarke of Hot Spring Cove has told of that community's need of carpenters and laborers to speed the work of rehabilitating the village following the extensive damage by the tidal wave.

Menonites, who had offered the services of skilled laborers and technicians, will be informed of the need and Mayor Hammer said that the personnel will probably be dispatched from Vancouver.

Plans had previously been made for electricians of the Menonite organization to go to Hot Spring Cove when the electricity plant, sent to Vancouver for repair following the flood, has been returned to the little community.

It was believed also that help would be needed at Zebalos.

Residents of Hot Spring Cove Indian village are trying to make the remaining homes habitable for the women and children before the fishing season opens on April 15.

Indian affairs branch engineers are in the area, and branch personnel have been informed of the Menonites' offer of help.

NANAIMO — This morning at 10 on the front steps of city hall, Mayor Pete Maffeo will officially hand over the Nanaimo and district collection of funds for the Alberni Valley and West Coast Disaster Fund to John DeMolay.

Mayor Maffeo is chairman of the committee formed at a recent meeting in Nanaimo of the association of Vancouver Island Municipalities, which has set $250,000 as the amount the association will donate to the fund.

At a meeting with city council representatives and members of the youth groups Thursday Mayor Maffeo said the council is behind on local collections because it has been occupied in organizing the Vancouver Island fund.

The mayor said John's Daughters and the Order of DeMolay were finally chosen to do the job because of their "youthful appeal". Each organization has an active membership of about 45 and all members are high school students.

This morning Mayor Maffeo will announce the amount to be donated to the fund by the city of Nanaimo.

QUALICUM BEACH — A donation of $750 was voted to the Alberni Valley disaster relief fund by the village council at a special meeting.

This represents a $1 per capita amount.

Don Beaton, council chairman, attended a special meeting in Parksville when representatives of the Kinmen Club, the Parksville Chamber of Commerce, Royal Canadian Legion Branch No. 49 and members of the Parksville village council, met to develop and set up the fund-raising campaign.

School District No. 69 (Qualicum) will attempt to raise $4,000 towards the flood stricken valley centres' relief fund.

A booth has been opened at the corner of Yates and Douglas Street, Victoria, where donations can be made to the Alberni Valley and West Coast Disaster Fund.

It will be open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Mondays to Saturdays, and be staffed by Boy Scouts on Saturdays and the IOOE during the rest of the week.

A special committee presided over by acting mayor Arthur Dowell also decided yesterday to let the IOOE hold a tag day May 2, in aid of the disaster fund.

Ald. Robert Baird, who is chairman of the fund drive here, set the goal for public contributions at $35,000. "It would be a sin if we did not aim high," he told the committee.

Meanwhile, disaster contributions sent to city hall at the end of its first week of collections yesterday totalled $1,541.58.

Combined health and welfare units of the Victoria Seventh-Day Adventist Church have provided $400 for Alberni disaster relief. The Port Alberni welfare unit under Pastor R. R. Reimold reports the funds are being used to supply bedding to victims of the recent disaster.

Pupils of Central Junior High

School in Victoria have already collected $63 of the $100 set as a target for their flood fund.

In Esquimalt, 18 community service groups have planned a blitz for funds April 30 when it is hoped that $4,000 will be raised.

A hockey game between the Esquimalt league champions, Pontiac Chiefs, and the Rest of the League is set for April 17 with proceeds to go to the fund.

Rector's Mother Dies After Fall

An elderly woman died after a fall at Belmont and Begbie yesterday.

Mrs. A. M. Page, 93, of 1601 Begbie, fell in an alcove near the entrance to St. Barnabas' church. She could not be seen except from directly across the street and it is not known how long had lain there before she was discovered by a neighbor.

She was apparently climbing the stairs to the church when she slipped and fell.

Mrs. Page's son, Rev. R. T. Page of St. Barnabas, told police he left his mother at the residence and wasn't aware she was coming over to the church.

Mrs. Page was found at 5:10 p.m. She died at approximately 9 p.m.

'Proved'

A student means survey now in progress at the University of Victoria "will prove conclusively university students are in desperate financial straits."

He said some students have told him their expenditures for a year were almost twice their income. Others said they don't know where they will find the extra $50 in tuition fees.

Mr. Devlin expects more than 400 of the 522 questionnaires returned.

A classic French comedy, Mother's Le Malade Imaginaire, will be presented in Victoria twice today by Vancouver's Troupe Molire.

The two shows at 2 p.m. and 8 p.m. in St. Ann's Auditorium, are sponsored by the French-Speaking Association of Victoria. The play is presented in French but an English synopsis is available at the theatre.

The Admiral Rayner Navy League Cadet Corps is looking for new members.

Boys between 11 and 14 who wish to join will be welcomed at the Navy League headquarters on Robert Street next Wednesday at 6:45 p.m.

Air Cadet Week in Victoria will begin April 19 with a church parade from cadet headquarters at 1212 Quadra to St. John's Anglican Church for the 11 a.m. service.

Parents and friends will have an opportunity at 7 p.m. Friday, April 24, to attend open house at the headquarters building.

The following night at 7 p.m. a science film will be shown followed by entertainment by the cadets and a dance. Prospective cadets and cadettes are invited to both Friday events.

Ordained as a deacon, he served at St. Mark's Rectory in Minnedosa, Man., until the outbreak of the First World War.

SERVES IN VICTORIA

He later served at St. Luke's Church, Victoria, and St. Margaret's Church, Winnipeg, until 1921. He was warden of St. John's College until 1934.

Bishop Wells studied at the University of Chicago before his consecration as bishop of the Cariboo diocese in 1934.

Sportsman Dies

Funeral Monday

A well-known sportsman and city employee, Joseph William "Cap" McConnell, died here yesterday at 86.

Mr. McConnell, a native son, was active in lacrosse circles at the turn of the century. He played on the team representing Victoria in a three-city league.

He was associated with the city light department for 31 years, retiring in 1945.

He is survived by a son, James W. McConnell, Vancouver; a daughter, Mrs. L. E. (Thelma) McLaughlin, Burnaby; four grandchildren; five great-grandchildren; and a sister, Mrs. M. A. Shepherd, 808 Toronto Street.

Funeral services will be held in Sands' Chapel at 2 p.m. Monday.

More Aid For Albernis

As Donations Recorded

AM continues to come in for the flood-hit Alberni Valley and another $2,754 in donations has been received.

PORT ALBERNI — A telephone call today to Mayor Les Hammer from Ivan Clarke of Hot Spring Cove has told of that community's need of carpenters and laborers to speed the work of rehabilitating the village following the extensive damage by the tidal wave.

Menonites, who had offered the services of skilled laborers and technicians, will be informed of the need and Mayor Hammer said that the personnel will probably be dispatched from Vancouver.

Plans had previously been made for electricians of the Menonite organization to go to Hot Spring Cove when the electricity plant, sent to Vancouver for repair following the flood, has been returned to the little community.

It was believed also that help would be needed at Zebalos.

Residents of Hot Spring Cove Indian village are trying to make the remaining homes habitable for the women and children before the fishing season opens on April 15.

Indian affairs branch engineers are in the area, and branch personnel have been informed of the Menonites' offer of help.

NANAIMO — This morning at 10 on the front steps of city hall, Mayor Pete Maffeo will officially hand over the Nanaimo and district collection of funds for the Alberni Valley and West Coast Disaster Fund to John DeMolay.

Mayor Maffeo is chairman of the committee formed at a recent meeting in Nanaimo of the association of Vancouver Island Municipalities, which has set $250,000 as the amount the association will donate to the fund.

At a meeting with city council representatives and members of the youth groups Thursday Mayor Maffeo said the council is behind on local collections because it has been occupied in organizing the Vancouver Island fund.

The mayor said John's Daughters and the Order of DeMolay were finally chosen to do the job because of their "youthful appeal". Each organization has an active membership of about 45 and all members are high school students.

This morning Mayor Maffeo will announce the amount to be donated to the fund by the city of Nanaimo.

QUALICUM BEACH — A donation of $750 was voted to the Alberni Valley disaster relief fund by the village council at a special meeting.

This represents a $1 per capita amount.

Don Beaton, council chairman, attended a special meeting in Parksville when representatives of the Kinmen Club, the Parksville Chamber of Commerce, Royal Canadian Legion Branch No. 49 and members of the Parksville village council, met to develop and set up the fund-raising campaign.

School District No. 69 (Qualicum) will attempt to raise $4,000 towards the flood stricken valley centres' relief fund.

A booth has been opened at the corner of Yates and Douglas Street, Victoria, where donations can be made to the Alberni Valley and West Coast Disaster Fund.

It will be open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Mondays to Saturdays, and be staffed by Boy Scouts on Saturdays and the IOOE during the rest of the week.

A special committee presided over by acting mayor Arthur Dowell also decided yesterday to let the IOOE hold a tag day May 2, in aid of the disaster fund.

Ald. Robert Baird, who is chairman of the fund drive here, set the goal for public contributions at $35,000. "It would be a sin if we did not aim high," he told the committee.

Meanwhile, disaster contributions sent to city hall at the end of its first week of collections yesterday totalled $1,541.58.

Combined health and welfare units of the Victoria Seventh-Day Adventist Church have provided $400 for Alberni disaster relief. The Port Alberni welfare unit under Pastor R. R. Reimold reports the funds are being used to supply bedding to victims of the recent disaster.

Pupils of Central Junior High

School in Victoria have already collected $63 of the $100 set as a target for their flood fund.

In Esquimalt, 18 community service groups have planned a blitz for funds April 30 when it is hoped that $4,000 will be raised.

A hockey game between the Esquimalt league champions, Pontiac Chiefs, and the Rest of the League is set for April 17 with proceeds to go to the fund.

Belgian Marathon

First Talks Fail Doctors Still Out

Target

Five shots were fired early Friday at Mrs. Verda Welcome, only Negro member of Maryland state senate, who shows where one bullet grazed her. Other shots missed as she leaped into car. (AP Photofax).

BRUSSELS (UPI)—The government and representatives of Belgium's 10,000 striking doctors failed early today to reach agreement on ending the medical walkout. The strike against a new national health law went into its 11th day.

A marathon meeting between both sides, called Friday in an attempt to halt the strike which virtually has stripped the country of all but emergency medical services, broke up early this morning.

More talks were scheduled for this afternoon, but the break dashed hopes for an immediate end to the strike. Before the meeting, some optimism had been expressed.

HAD PREDICTED

Interior Minister Gilson had predicted the medical walkout would be over after the weekend.

The talks are aimed at starting formal negotiations on possible changes in the law to make it acceptable to doctors. Both sides have agreed that, once negotiations begin, the doctors will return to work.

MUST KNOW

After the meeting Gilson said he was convinced the talks would be "finished" later today. But Dr. Andre Wynen, representing the physicians, commented: "Before we can end the strike we must know where we are going."

He said the talks had been held in a "good atmosphere," but it was "too early" to tell if an agreement was possible now.

Banker Charged

FAIRFIELD, Ill. (AP)—The FBI says examiners have uncovered nearly $1,000,000 in irregularities in a small-town bank where a respected banker has been charged with embezzlement. Bookkeeper and cashier Lee Brown, 28, employed at the bank since he was 18, went into seclusion Thursday after being freed on $10,000 bond.

Howard: Quebec Like Addict Let It Go Its Way

Teachers of Canadiens Not Their Job—John D

BI-N-BI: BAD DAY

OTTAWA (UPI)—A separate Quebec and a new confederation of nine provinces was urged Friday as the best alternative to the "collapse of the Canadian nation" by New Democrat MP Frank Howard.

The B.C. member, drawing charges of being a western "separatist," led a debate on Canada's national dilemma which ended in a combined opposition attack on the royal commission on bilingualism and biculturalism.

Mr. Howard lashed out at the "insatiable demands" of Premier Lesage and his colleagues, comparing the Quebec government to a "drug addict."

BEGINS SMALL

"It can't get enough," he said. Just like a narcotics addict it begins with a small dose and then gets bigger and bigger."

The federal government, he said, would find itself "giving and giving and giving to Quebec until there was nothing left to give."

If the present course continued it could result in the "collapse of the Canadian nation and an end to any possibility of amicable relations in the country," Howard said.

SEPARATE ENTITY

He said the government should "take a course that will work and build a confederation of nine provinces with Quebec as a separate entity fitting in as loosely as it may wish."

The feeling in other parts of Canada was turning to bitter resentment because of Lesage's continued demands, he said, and a nine-province confederation would be better for both the country and Quebec.

CO-CHAIRMAN

Social Credit MP H. A. Olson of Medicine Hat started the attack on the royal commission, centering it on the actions of the chairman, Davidson Dunton and Andre Laurendeau.

Instead of listening objectively to the views of Canadians, they were going across the country making "ridiculous and inflammatory statements."

CLOSER LOOK

He urged the government to take a closer look at the two men and either remove them or advise them to do their work properly and explain the role of the commission to Canadians.

Opposition leader John Diefenbaker condemned the co-chairmen for interpreting their own views rather than collecting evidence for recommendations to the government.

"They have turned into per-

Millions At Last

OTTAWA (CP)—The Commons finally wound up its prolonged debate on the 1963-64 supplementary estimates Friday night at the end of a three-hour overtime sitting.

An appropriations bill for $143,762,715 quickly shot through three readings.

Debate on the final spending items for the fiscal year that ended March 31 took 16 sitting days.

Originally, the government aimed at clearing them up March 26, the day before Good Friday, to clear the decks for the traditional 10-day Easter recess. But the opposition balked and the recess was washed out.

Columbia Pledge:

Higher Interest No Cost to B.C.

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal government will shoulder a difference in interest costs involved in United States payment of $74,800,000 for the Columbia River project to British Columbia Oct. 1.

External Affairs Minister Martin, after giving that information to Colin Cameron (NDP—Nanaimo—Cowichan—the Islands) in a series of questions, agreed Friday to provide a report on just what this will cost. The details were not settled.

NORMAL PART

But he insisted that this federal responsibility is a normal part of foreign exchange transactions.

Under the Columbia power and flood-control project, B.C. is paying expenses for three storage dams and collecting all the revenues. An agreement stipulates that the federal government will not bear any of the project cost.

The federal financial cost was questioned as the external affairs committee ended its first week of study of the project.

Mr. Cameron said he was not objecting because the Canadian government will bear part of the interest burden in accepting U.S. funds and then paying the money to B.C. But he wanted the procedure set out clearly.

'Frying Pan' Project

Little dots in what looks like a frying pan are crane trucks and bulldozers scooping out tons of muck to reach rock bottom of New Bedford, Mass., harbor. Huge cofferdam will be built in harbor to act as hurricane breakwater. (AP Photofax)

Drowning Boy Saved Brain Damage Feared

WINNIPEG (CP)—Doctors worked Friday to save the life of a two-year-old boy pulled from a water-filled ditch by the wife of the Anglican Church leader in Canada.

Colin Campbell was listed in critical condition at Children's Hospital.

Doctors, fearing brain damage, are monitoring his condition constantly with an electroencephalogram—a device that records activity in the skull.

Lack of oxygen causes brain damage and the boy may have had his supply cut off for as long as 30 minutes when he nearly drowned in the ditch.

SLID INTO DITCH

He slid down the side of the ditch Wednesday morning into four feet of water on the treed grounds of St. Mary's Academy, a private girls' school. He had been riding a tricycle with his four-year-old sister Mary-Ann.

The little girl ran for home three blocks away to tell her mother.

Archbishop H. H. Clark, Anglican primate for Canada, and his wife Asma, driving by the school, were attracted by the scream of an unidentified woman.

JUMPED FENCE

Mrs. Clark ran from the car after it jerked to a stop, jumped over the iron fence and ran to the edge of the ravine.

"I couldn't believe it was a little boy," she said later. All

Man Who Named Spitfire Dead

EDINBURGH (AP)—Sir Robert MacLean who gave the immortal name to Britain's most famous fighter plane of the Second World War—Spitfire—is dead at 80. He was former chairman of the Vickers-Supermarine Aviation Company.

'My Suzy the Third to Die What a Waste of Life!'

REGINA (CP)—Mr. and Mrs. John Ochanney have new hope for a cure for their daughter Yvonne, 4, who has leukemia.

Three months ago, Mrs.

Ochanney took Yvonne to Corsica, where French biologist Gaston Naessens claimed he could cure leukemia.

Before he could treat Yvonne, the French health ministry declared his cure worthless and prohibited him from using it.

Now Mrs. Ochanney has learned from an English housewife she met in Corsica of two British doctors who claim they can cure leukemia.

Mrs. Harry Pilgrim said in a letter to Mrs. Ochanney her six-year-old daughter Suzy died of leukemia on March 7.

The letter said the two London doctors, W. M. Croston and Celia Culver Evans, have had the serum for some time, but "because of professional etiquette, they have been unable to make it known to the public."

"So children die," she wrote. "My suzy was the third child to die. Donald Brown, little June (other children in Corsica), and Suzy. What a waste of life!" The British doctors claim their serum is based on the same principle of research into the cause of leukemia as Naessens used.

Mrs. Pilgrim is checking the authenticity of the reports. If the doctors can treat Yvonne, there is a good chance Mrs. Ochanney may embark on yet another long, expensive trip abroad.

While she waits, Yvonne continues to receive daily treatments at the Regina cancer clinic.

New Hope for Ochanneys?

Christine's Lover Drops Lawsuit

LONDON (AP)—Aloysius (Lucky) Gordon withdrew Friday a damage suit against Christine Keeler and two other women for conspiring to put him in jail.

Gordon, a Jamaican night club singer, was jailed six months last year on a charge of beating Miss Keeler.

Gordon, a former lover of Miss Keeler, continued to protest his innocence, won his release and the girl was arrested along with a friend and their housekeeper. All three were convicted on charges of perjury and conspiracy.

Christine, who drew a nine-month sentence, will be released in June.

Cuban Success Explained

Youth Devoted to Fidel

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Cuban Premier Castro has entrenched himself as an increasingly popular dictator by winning the devotion of the island's youth, attorney James Donovan of New York said Friday.

"He is directing everything for the youth, and they are fanatically devoted to Fidel," Donovan told the National Press Club.

Donovan was the attorney who dealt with Castro in arranging for the exchange of 1,300 prisoners taken at the 1961 Bay of Pigs invasion in return for $60,000,000 worth of U.S. medical supplies.

He said Castro has been gaining in strength. But he added the support of Cuban youth was not because of the Communist system the dictator has imposed.

"The island of Cuba belongs to Castro," Donovan said, "and it is absurd to consider him a pawn of Khrushchev. The Cuban youth are not concerned about the party."

"And Castro is far greater devoted to Fidel than to Karl Marx."

Donovan said that from the time Castro took power in 1959 he has directed his program primarily toward the school-age children of Cuba.

"He is not interested in the older people, the fugitives, the exiles," Donovan said. "Remember Lenin once said, 'Give me the children of a country for four years, and I can assure its future.'"

"Castro has had the youth of Cuba for almost six years," he said.

Donovan said Castro has been "brilliantly playing the United States against Soviet Russia and both of them

Nanaimo Assizes

Morley Statement Ruled Evidence

NANAIMO — An Assize Court jury spent most of Friday out of the courtroom while the defence and the Crown argued over the admissibility of a statement given by Robert Morley, accused of murder, to an Alert Bay RCMP corporal.

Morley is accused of causing the death of 10-year-old Rosalind Wadhams, who was admitted to St. George Hospital in Alert Bay Nov. 7, 1963, suffering from a stab wound. She died eight days later of an abdominal infection resulting from the wound.

ADMISSIBLE
Mr. Justice J. S. Atkins ruled the statement taken from Morley by Cpl. James Vincent was admissible evidence.

The jury returned to the courtroom about 5 p.m. Friday after the day-long trial within a trial.

Cpl. Vincent said he asked Morley to make the statement Nov. 8.

FROM A BEACH
The corporal had earlier testified he and Const. M. F. Boeckler had carried Morley from a beach in front of Five Cabins, near the place the injured girl was discovered, and taken him to a police car with the aid of another constable. He said he and Const. Boeckler discovered Morley within an hour after they were called to the scene.

NIGHT BEFORE
In a statement given to the corporal, Morley identified clothing taken from him at the police station the night before and other articles found in the area in which he was arrested. Cpl. Vincent had told the jury about finding a crushed grey felt hat partly under a blood-stained coat believed to have belonged to the Wadhams girl. He said Morley identified the hat as his own.

WEIST WATCH
Cpl. Vincent said Morley also identified a wrist watch found near the scene. Thursday, Cpl. Vincent told the court he found a tiny pin nearly a month later on the floor of a porch connected to a house owned by Karl Svanvik, the same place he found the coat and hat.

In a demonstration for the jury, he showed that the pin connected the expansion bracelet with the watch proper.

UNCONNECTED
Const. Max Jensen, who said he found the damaged watch in a cabin close to the Svanvik residence, told the court the strap was unconnected when he found it.

Testimony continues today.

Civil Defence

Lodging Survey Nanaimo Goal

NANAIMO—Nanaimo civil defence is applying for permission from city hall to go ahead with a lodging survey of the city and district.

Dawson Gordon, head of the local organization, said the survey would involve taking data from municipal rolls. The information will include the physical characteristics of the home and, if possible, the number of occupants.

Mr. Gordon said a house-to-house canvass may be necessary to get complete records as far as the number of occupants is concerned.

Representatives of Nanaimo and district civil defence indicated they will attempt to start the survey within the next month.

Mr. Gordon said this type of survey is necessary as Nanaimo and district is considered as a "reception area" and, in case of disaster, evacuees from Victoria or Vancouver could be more quickly placed in homes in this area.

Watch for Two Men Merchants Warned

NANAIMO—RCMP have warned merchants to look out for two men who, they expect, will attempt to cash American Express travellers' cheques.

Police said the travellers' cheques will be in $20 denominations and have a serial number above or below EA-19-375-024. They expect the attempt to be made during the weekend.

15 Canadians

Sooke Pupil on 'Hate' List

A 17-year-old Sooke school district student is one of 15 Canadians named by the Canadian Jewish Congress as a distributor of "hate" literature. The Congress is seeking federal legislation to stop distribution by the 15—13 from Ontario and one from Nova Scotia.

A Congress spokesman in Vancouver declined to comment on the investigation of the people named but said his group was "familiar" with the Sooke situation.

Last month, school board officials said there had been anti-semitic literature distributed in a Sooke district school.

Lawyer Sydney Harris, who released the names during a speech in Toronto Thursday, said evidence against the 15 was collected during a Congress investigation over the past several months.

He renewed the Congress' call for federal legislation to make the distribution of anti-semitic and other "hate" literature an offence under the Criminal Code.

Seven of those named by the Congress denied having anything to do with the alleged anti-semitic campaign. One declined comment, while the remaining seven were not immediately available.

Harris identified the leader of the group as a 19-year-old Scarborough, Ont., youth, whom he described as "an infant in law and in fact whose post office box privileges have been recently cancelled by the postmaster-general."

Also named was a Toronto

man, "a former and, happily, defunct candidate for the federal government."

Harris said the Congress had compiled a list of between 25 and 30 names and turned it over to the Ontario attorney-general's and federal justice departments.

He declined to release all the names because some "are no doubt innocent inquirers, self-appointed amateur investigators or mere curiosity seekers."

The wife of one of the men on the list said she and her husband "had enough of that kind of thing in Germany" and had not expected it in Canada.

"It is nonsense to say my husband or I distribute anti-Jewish literature," she said. Mr. Harris emphasized the Congress realizes those named have committed no offence under the law as it now exists. "We now repeat our request for amendments in the law so society may be protected against these breaches of that previous freedom of expression which none of us wishes to see sacrificed on the altar of 'hate,'" he said.

Miss Victoria Deadline Tonight

Clock Is Running Out On Cinderella Dreams

When the clock strikes midnight tonight, the Cinderella dreams of some Victoria girls may turn into pumpkins. So to speak.

That is, if they haven't entered the Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce Miss Victoria contest. Because midnight tonight is the deadline. Entries this year are expected to be more than 30.

Preliminaries for the contest will be held April 17 at the Empress Hotel.

The winner of the contest will receive a formal gown, a $150 bursary and clothes given by local merchants. Each of the 10 finalists will receive a color portrait of herself, a pair of shoes and a beauty kit.

Among the latest of the comedy contestants are government employee Trudi Friedl, 18, of 2621 Richmond; bank clerk Armande Marie Lavette, 17, of 1365 Rockland; bank clerk Lois Marie Gardner, 20, of 942 Selkirk, and waitress Valerie Vaughan-Evans, 18, of 1919 Lee.

Shipyard Peace Terms Secret

Terms of a strike settlement proposal made Thursday by a government official to the parties in the B.C. shipyard strike are being kept confidential for the time being.

James McConachy, president of the Victoria Metal Trades Council, said last night deputy labor minister William Sands has asked that his suggestions to end the strike not be released.

Mailmen Jeeping To 1,000

About 1,000 households in the Glen Lake-Esquimal Lagoon area will receive regular home delivery of mail beginning next month.

Daily delivery of letters, parcels and any necessary special delivery mail will begin before the end of May, says local postmaster Allan Davies. The deliveries will be made by postmen in jeep-type mailmobiles.

Lagoon and Glen Lake sub-post offices will be replaced by full post office services and about 15 letter-drop boxes will be installed in the districts, Mr. Davies says.

Downtown

Tows Start Monday

Motorists unfortunate enough to be parked in no-stopping zones during the morning rush hour Monday may discover an empty space where they left their cars—they will have been towed away.

A special meeting in city hall has decided to take action Monday in another step to ensure a free flow of traffic. Main areas to be affected will be along Fort Street and Pandora.

These and other streets also have no-stopping signs governing afternoon rush hours. Motorists who lose their cars will have to pay a traffic fine and, in addition, towing charges.

Victoria Super Service at Douglas and Queens is in charge of towing operations.

Fall Hurts Visitor

Mrs. D. W. MacBean of Powell River required medical treatment for a sprained leg muscle yesterday after she fell down several stairs in the Empress Hotel.

Her husband is a delegate to the Forest Products Safety Council currently in session at the hotel.

Youngsters Aid Oldsters In May 2 Centre Drive

Victoria's youngsters will make an all-out effort to help the city's oldsters May 2, when 3,000 young citizens are expected to stage a canvass for donations for the proposed $185,000 Senior Citizens' Activity Centre.

It is up to senior citizens to raise one-third of the total, or $65,000, toward the centre. The other two-thirds will be donated equally by the provincial government and the city of Victoria.

About $15,000 has so far been collected. Boys and girls aged 10 to 13 have been asked to assist in the canvass, and any youngster who wants to help out can get information on the canvass by phoning EV 6-6631.

Fifty bicycles have been donated as prizes for the youngsters who collect the most money in their districts, and all children who participate will be treated to a special show at the Odeon Theatre.

A "silver thread" of coins will also be formed May 2 when a tag day is held in the city, with donations lined up along the curb on both sides of Douglas Street. It is hoped the silver thread will swell the fund by stretching along many downtown city blocks.

Jack Philson is in charge of enlisting youngsters for the one-day blitz.

Sikhs Start Year

Sikhs from Vancouver Island and the mainland—more than 1,000 in all—are celebrating their three-day new year festival of Baisakhi.

The year of "new birth" began at 10 a.m. yesterday and was marked by the traditional reading of the Guru Grantha Sahib, the Sikh sacred book, in their temple on Topaz.

Giani Hira Singh officiated at the religious services.

Games and sports, including a soccer game at the S. J. Wilks School grounds, will mark the celebrations today, Mahinder Singh Pandhwa, temple secretary, said yesterday.

A religious service Sunday will end the festival.

Jobs Awarded At Airport

Two contracts were awarded this week for landscaping and furnishing the Patricia Bay Airport building.

A $32,205 contract for landscaping will be carried out by Conniston Construction Co. Ltd., Ottawa. The Robert Simpson Co. Ltd. of Burnaby was successful bidder, at $18,575.15, for supply and installation of furnishings.

Two Years for One

A youth was sentenced in city magistrate's court yesterday to two years in the penitentiary when it was disclosed he had a criminal record and was on parole at the time he was found guilty of robbery with violence.

Ronald Moore, 20, of 1315 Stanley, was charged along with George Mazerall, 18, and Clifford LeBlanc, 19, both of the same address.

Moore was found guilty Thursday of robbing a man at knife point at Clover Point last Friday. Mazerall and LeBlanc pleaded guilty to robbery with violence last Friday.

LeBlanc was remanded to April 16 for psychiatric and pre-sentence report, and Mazerall was sentenced to 14 months definite and eight months indeterminate in a young offenders' unit.

"This is a very serious type of offence," said Magistrate William Ostler. "It was planned by the three of you and executed deliberately."

He noted Mazerall had no previous record. "You have had the advantage of being sent to a young offenders' unit before," said Magistrate Ostler to Moore, "but you didn't take that advantage. I have no choice but to send you to the penitentiary."

Two men were fined $300 each and had their driver's licences suspended when they pleaded guilty in city court to impaired driving.

Court was told Neil E. Barry, 3731 Savannah, struck a car stopped at a red light while driving south on Government Thursday night.

Thomas H. D. Armstrong, 344 Berwick, was seen to enter his car which had been parked on the street with its door open. When checked by a policeman he was found to have been drinking and was given a breathalyzer test.

Verna Campbell, 216 Memorial Crescent, was ordered to post a $250 bond to keep the peace for a period of six months when she appeared in city court.

She pleaded guilty on Monday to stealing clothing and other goods to a value of $151.54 from the T. Eaton Co. April 3.

Gary Dwight Lamontagne, 18, of 2632 Douglas, was ordered to post a $250 bond and keep the peace for six months when he appeared in Saanich court Thursday.

He was arrested by Saanich police April 3 and charged with possession of stolen goods under $50 when it was found he had made a car grille out of 36 chrome milkshake holders stolen from the White Spot, 3651 Douglas, over a period of months. He pleaded guilty to the charge April 3.

A man was fined $50 in Colwood court when he pleaded guilty to supplying liquor to his younger brother, a minor.

Court was told Douglas M. Cornwell, 324 Belmont Road, was found sitting in a parked car with his younger brother John Thursday night when checked by police.

Police had been called after one of the men was seen to throw an empty beer bottle from the car. John Cornwell was fined $20 for being a minor in possession of alcohol.

Home Peace Plan Goulash Affair

LONDON (CP) — If the world has entered the era of "goulash diplomacy" it would be a great gain for humanity to let the best cook win.

Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home, addressing what was described as the largest press luncheon ever held in London, offered his gastronomic tip Friday.

Sir Alec, who has said that a fat Communist is better than a skinny one, elaborated on the theme. Briefly, his theme was that dogma should not get in the way of progress—"political ideology must no longer be allowed to insulate a nation from economic progress."

This was a pointed reference to Communist China. He hinted the Peking-ruled mainland might fall behind the rest of the world if ideological differences were allowed to "freeze" all other development.

Quebec Control Legal?

John D Wins Pledge On Eskimo Transfer

OTTAWA (CP) — Opposition leader Diefenbaker urged the government Friday to ask the Supreme Court of Canada to rule on whether the government can transfer control of Eskimo administration to Quebec.

However, he accepted a compromise under which Transport Minister Pickersgill promised to have the law officers of the Crown give a legal opinion on the Eskimo transfer.

Mr. Pickersgill also promised to bring the matter before the cabinet. If there is any doubt
